LOS ANGELES, July 9.—Threatening death to the prohibition officers of southern California, a black hand letter, stating that Supervisor John Exnicios of the Pacific mobile staff of "dry" agents, Prohibition Inspector Arthur Kriete and Enforcement Officer Dan O'Leary are "on the edge of their graves," has been received at the federal offices.

The person who signed the letter with the initials "Wm. G. H." declared he would permit flowers to be planted on the graves of the three officers, but would sow a crop of weeds thereon.

E. C. Yellowley, till recently in charge of prohibition enforcement at the San Francisco dry headquarters in the custom house, has been put at the head of the new interstate squadron of enforcers, according to an Associated Press dispatch received from Washington today.

Yellowley was formerly head of the field audit division of the income tax unit.

The dispatch said that while each state was being turned over to its own state prohibition director, the interstate body was being assembled in Washington. This is composed of a group of general agents, of which Yellowley has been chairman.

NEW UTAH CHIEF

New state appointments include Theodore Schweizer for Utah.

The transfer of California's state organization to E. Forrest Mitchell is under way, but the details may take a month.

John Exnicios will remain in San Francisco for the time being.

Under the old organization, abandoned at the end of the last fiscal year, Exnicios had charge of California, Nevada, Oregon and Washington.

He will go to the interstate force.

LIMOUSINE SEIZED

The government today had a big fine limousine. It was seized while carrying a cargo of booze to Monterey. Edward Haley of San Jose was driving it.

Proceedings against Joseph King were dismissed and the case against A. J. La Porte taken under advisement by Commissioner Francis Krull. The government detectives got a warrant to search La Porte's saloon. They also searched his residence and a hotel room occupied by King. Finding evidence in King's room, they applied for a search warrant on the strength of it, directed against King, but this was denied.

Five quart bottles don't make a gallon of whisky, Collector of Customs John O. Davis has found. He sells the government's whisky to those who get permission and he has found that the trade custom has left the purchaser of five quart-perish of a gallon by an average of six pints ounces. The

Leprosy Attacks Army Man's Wife

By International News Service.
WASHINGTON, July 9.—A victim of leprosy, Mrs. Lutz Wahl, wife of Colonel Wahl of this city, has been removed to the Federal Hospital in Louisiana.

Mrs. Wahl is the first woman to contract the disease in Washington, according to health department records. She probably will be given the newly discovered chaulmoogra oil treatment, which is said often to effect a complete cure.

Colonel Wahl is stationed at the War Department. During the war he served as a brigadier general.

Movie Star Becomes Engaged While Touring Europe

Mary Miles Minter, motion picture star, who has thousands of admirers in San Francisco, is to be married.

This is the word received by The Call today from Paris, Ky.

The lucky man, according to advice, is Orville Erringer of Portland, Ore., who has relatives in Kentucky.

Miss Minter is now touring Europe. Announcement of the engagement is not mention the date of the marriage.

FAMILY SIZE SETS WAGE IN BILL AGAINST RACE SUICIDE

Oh, you apostles of race suicide! Here is something for you to think about:

Race suicide is the result of small families.

Small families are the result of low wages.

The way to root race suicide is to increase the wages of the heads of large families, and that is precisely what T. C. Fulton, 1110 Gough street, proposes to do.

Fulton has drafted a bill, which he is working to get on the ballot through an initiative, for equalizing wages as between men of large families and men of small ones.

If you have less children than this law prescribes then a part of your wages would go into a bonus fund, and out of this bonus fund workers with large families would receive additional compensation.

The real wage unit would be the dependent child.

For every dependent child over the minimum number prescribed by this law the large family man would receive a fixed amount in addition to his regular wages, and the small family man would be penalized an equal amount for every child less than the required number.

Simple, isn't it?

Well, the inventor of the idea hasn't worked out all the details, but he's open to suggestions. And he wants help.

Fulton, as a starter, has prepared a wage scale which runs something like this:

For one person in the family, $4.75 per day.

For two, $5.75.

For three, $6.10.

For four, $6.48.

And so on up to eight, where the head would receive $10.50 per day.

No special government machinery would be needed to work this wage equalization, as each employer would automatically take off the required amount from those having short families and give it to those having long ones.

Warship Builders In Japan Strike, Closing Dockyards

KOBE, Japan, July 8 (By the Associated Press).—A strike has caused the closing down of the Kawasaki dockyard here, the largest in Japan, employing 20,000 men.

This interrupts the construction work on the eight battleships-eight battle cruiser program.

The submarines which are under construction are being guarded by blue-jackets.

The strikers, including several thousand from the Mitsubishi shipyards at Nagasaki, which also are closed, held a parade today in which red flags were carried and placards displayed with the inscription, "Down with capitalism!"

A collision with the police occurred at one point, involving some casualties.

Tourists Forsake Trains for Autos Into Yellowstone

By Associated Press.
BOZEMAN, Mont., July 9.—Figures made public today by Yellowstone Park officials show the total number of motor cars entering the park in June this year to be 1046, carrying 3240 passengers, as against 1025 cars in June last year, carrying 3416 passengers, or nearly double the traffic of a year ago.

On the other hand the number of people at the hotels and camps who made the trip by rail were 2691 in June this year compared with 2632 in June last year, a decrease of 591.

Brolaski Warned By Court Against Surrender Ruse

Harry Brolaski, under sentence as the "master mind" of a bootlegging ring, failed to appear today before Judge W. W. Morrow of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to surrender himself in exoneration of bond.

Instead, his attorney telephoned James B. Holohan, United States marshal, that Brolaski would surrender Monday.

Frank M. Silva, United States attorney, said to Judge Morrow that he believed Brolaski was trying to "take advantage of a technicality and would claim that he had made an effort to surrender yesterday."

"If Mr. Brolaski tries any funny business with this court he will find himself in contempt and I will order him into custody and his bond forfeited," said Judge Morrow.

Brolaski appeared at the federal building yesterday and announced that his bondmen were ready to surrender him, as they feared complications on account of an indictment returned in a stock sales deal in New York.

But Judge Morrow refused to call a special session of court to exonerate the $17,500 bond.

Brolaski's troubles were increased today by the filing of a suit in the Superior Court by Nellie M. Wilburn, 615 Crocker building, for $400 alleged to be due on a promissory note dated August 6, 1919, $100 attorney's fees and interest.

REPUBLICANS ORDER ERIN WARFARE TO STOP

DUBLIN, July 8 (By the Associated Press).—A general order directing the suspension of hostilities during the peace negotiations, the order to be effective from noon, July 11, was issued this evening by Richard Mulcahy, chief of staff of the Irish republican army. The order reads:

"To the officers commanding all units: In view of the conversations now being entered into by our government with the British government, and in pursuance of the mutual understandings to suspend hostilities during these conversations, active operations by our troops will suspend from noon July 11."

LONDON, July 9 (By the Associated Press).—Not since the memorable day when the armistice was declared ending the great war has any event so stirred the United Kingdom as the conclusion of the truce in the Irish warfare, sealed today by the issuance of orders to make it effective.

Simultaneously came the announcement that Eamon de Valera, the republican leader, and David Lloyd George, the British prime minister, will meet, probably next week, to confer with a view of settling the centuries old difficulty.

The Ulster press has received the development coldly, but throughout southern and western Ireland and in all England there is rejoicing, which unmistakably is heartfelt.

For the first time in many weary months of bloodshed the soldiers of the crown were today fraternizing with Sinn Féin in the streets of Dublin, that one might walk about freely without an ever present fear of being shot by unseen forces.

TROUBLE END PREDICTED

From isolated districts some reports came of continuing violence, but nothing of an outstanding character. Word of the truce could hardly have been distributed to all points in Ireland so soon.

Predictions were freely made today in responsible quarters that the Irish trouble would be brought to an end.

The exact date of the meeting between Premier Lloyd George and De Valera has not been settled, but no time will be lost in arranging for the conversation. Safe conducts are being prepared for the republican leader and such of his associates as he desires to bring to London.

Just what nature the meeting of Lloyd George and De Valera will take has not yet been determined, but it is understood here that no objection is foreseen to others participating in the conversations.

It is understood the details of the forthcoming conference undoubtedly will be discussed over the weekend at Chequers Court, where Lloyd George is entertaining the premiers of the dominions.

Earl Middleton, south Irish Unionist leader, reached London this morning from Dublin and was almost immediately received in audience by King George. It is believed that the king details of yesterday's momentous conference at which the truce was arranged.

The whole country this morning was seething with talk over peace in Ireland, which was the one absorbing topic of conversation.

PERMANENCE DESIRED

Earl Middleton said that he and his colleagues had achieved their object at the conference yesterday, and that further progress toward peace was a question of time.

One Death, One Dying, Toll or Bootleg Booze

One man is dead and one is near death today as the result of drinking bootleg whisky.

Frank H. Popp, room clerk at a downtown hotel, died early today at St. Luke's Hospital and Henry Ritapross, Standard Hotel, is at the Central Emergency Hospital in a serious condition.

Ritapross was found unconscious in a lot at Eighth and Market by a patrolman and taken to the Emergency Hospital, where prompt action may have saved his life.

Popp was found unconscious in his hotel room and was taken to St. Luke's Hospital. At first it was thought he had succumbed to acute pneumonia.

Mrs. Popp went to Los Angeles a few days ago to arrange for a cottage on Catalina Island, where Popp was to join her in a few days for their vacation.

Frantic efforts were made today by friends to get in communication with her.

Popp was stricken yesterday and was unconscious when found. He had attempted to reach the telephone ap-

IRISH FAILS TO ENTHUSE OVER PEACE PACT

BELEAST PAPER CALLS TRUCE REPULSIVE ACTION

BELEAST, July 9 (By the Associated Press).—The new development in Irish politics was coldly received in Belfast. "Ruckling to the murder gang," the Belfast News-Letter captions its editorial on the truce, saying there are complications in the Downing street announcement which are disquieting "to all loyal subjects of the king and repulsive to all honorable men."

Universal opinion will consider such an agreement most dishonorable and unprecedented in British history, the newspaper declares.

The Northern Whig in its comment says:

"Whatever the government may promise or protest, we doubt if they will be able entirely to remove the fear that their first descent into the valley of humiliation will not only fail to bring peace to Ireland but may ultimately be the means of causing many faithful British subjects to pass through the valley of the shadow of death. Until the outlook is much clearer than now we are not at all sure that a truce of God."

The Irish News expresses confidence that the conference will be held. "It is an opportunity, it says, and 'if peace is to be secured no man or body of men in Ireland or Great Britain can throw the opportunity aside without incurring a burden of responsibility too heavy to be borne.'"

ARTFUL JOY OVER PEACE, SAYS UNIONIST

DUBLIN, July 9 (By the Associated Press).—The result of the conference will be received through the Irish press with heartful joy, says the Irish Unionist, today in its comments on the peace negotiations.

The Irish News has ceased to be a peace newspaper, and has become a substantial independent, a Nationalist.

tion to be discussed by Lloyd George and De Valera.

"Sentiment in Ireland," he said, "is overwhelming in favor of a settlement, and there is fervent hope it will be possible to arrive at a solution that will bring peace to this country, in which measureable distance."

The Chronicle, remarking upon the extraordinary fact that Sir Nevill Macgregor, military commander in Ireland, was able to drive through the streets of Dublin yesterday in full uniform and unmolested, but without molestation, said:

"Here is peace, not simply in prospect, but in fact."

Military patrols were withdrawn from the streets of Dublin last evening, says a Central News dispatch from that city. Many of the police auxiliaries were walking the streets leisurely, fraternizing with civilians and discussing the prospects of peace in Ireland.

The truce between the Sinn Féin and the crown forces may, therefore, be said to be already begun, although the time for commencing it officially has been set for Monday noon.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL

Staff Correspondent International News Service

DUBLIN, July 9.—In the midst of a wave of sanguine predictions of "peace in Ireland at last," Eamon de Valera, president of the Irish Republic, this afternoon issued a proclamation to "unhappy Ireland," adding: "Should force be used against our nation, you must be ready once more to resist."

These words were issued during the period of each individual soldier and citizen must regard himself as a defender of the nation's honor. Your discipline must prove in the most convincing manner that this is the struggle of an organized nation.

In the negotiations now in progress, our representatives will do their utmost to secure a just and peaceful termination of this struggle, but history—particularly our own history—and the character of the issue to be decided are warning against undue confidence. Unwavering determination to endure all that may be necessary and fortitude such as you have shown in all the recent sufferings.

These words will lead you to the place you desire.

Should force be resumed against our nation, you must be ready at once to resist. Thus alone will you secure the final abandonment of force and the acceptance of justice and reason as arbiters.

The official terms of the armistice under which all fighting in Ireland will come to an end Monday were made public here today.

De Valera arrived at the Mansion House early and immediately conferred with the heads of the Irish republican army about arranging for making the truce effective Monday noon.

It is believed that all Irish political prisoners will soon be released, the curfew revoked and courts martial be stopped.

TERMS OF TRUCE

Under the terms of the truce, the Sinn Féin agreed to cease all attacks against British forces. The use of arms by Sinn Féin will be prohibited. Military maneuvers of all kinds

S F. GIRL BACK FROM OPERA TRIUMPHS ABROAD TO SEEK NEW LAURELS IN U. S. CENTERS

Miss Stella Lamont, San Francisco prima donna, who has won fame in European opera houses.

Prima Donna May Join New York or Chicago Companies

Miss Stella Lamont, a San Francisco girl, has returned from opera triumphs abroad to appear in her native land. According to advices from New York today the young American prima donna, who has been singing with great success in the principal opera houses of Italy and Cuba for the last three seasons, will, in all probability, become a member of either the Chicago or Metropolitan Opera companies. In the former case, Miss Lamont will appear before her own San Francisco audience during the coming season.

The young prima donna is the daughter of the late John Nathan, San Francisco importer, and the niece of Max Nathan, now a resident of this city. She was to have sung with the Chicago Opera Association last season, but owing to a tangle of cable dispatches she failed to receive her contract until after she had signed up for the 1920-21 season with the Italian dancers.

In speaking of Miss Lamont, one of the most important Italian critics said: "This young prima donna is a blonde beauty with a coloratura soprano voice of rare quality, pleasing personality and excellent histrionic ability. She is by far the best American soprano appearing in this country."

DRY AND MORALS SQUAD ABOLISHED IN OAKLAND

The dry squad of the Oakland police department was abolished today in a shakeup ordered by the new chief, James E. Drew.

The morals squad, in makeup the same as the dry squad, was also done away with.

Captain William Kyle, commander of both squads, was ordered back to duty.

Chief Drew said prohibition enforcement would be handled by the department as the regular part of the duty of all members.

Captain Charles Bock of the eastern and Thorwald Brown of the northern stations were ordered to exchange stations. Seven minor changes were made.

Not satisfied with storming the assessor's office, many of the women attacked the list with erasers. The list was accepted as authority for setting many long standing arguments as to age.

LEATHER LAD TO RAIN OF METEORS UPON SUN

By International News Service.

MARE ISLAND OBSERVATORY, July 9.—In discussing the cause of the extraordinary hot weather here being felt all over the world, Prof. T. J. J. See, government astronomer at Mare Island, announced today that his researches had led to the conclusion that the disturbance is due to an unusual downpour of meteors upon the sun, by which the radiation and effective surface temperature of the sun is temporarily increased.

We have had these hot summers before and they seem to come at about ten or eleven year intervals, corresponding to the sun spot cycle.

Within the last twenty years Dr. Abbott of the astrophysical observatory, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, has gathered observations data is show that the sun's radiation is variable to an appreciable degree. In practice it is not easy to overcome all local effects within our own atmosphere, yet such an upsurge of the sun's activity over the whole world will appeal to our common sense as showing that the radiation our sun is sensibly variable.

METEORIC GROWTH

In the year 1909-10 I was led to investigate the average amount of meteoric matter falling into the sun. It proved to be larger than had been generally supposed, making a solid layer about two meters deep all over the sun's surface in a century, when the matter is of the average density of the earth, which is 5.5, or twice the density of the sun's mass. In a century this downpour accumulates and exceeds the total mass of our moon.

The chief effect of this downpour is a slight increase of the sun's mass, and an acceleration of the secular motion of the earth in its orbit. But the change in the earth's motion does not exceed one second of arc in a century, and a change of the sun's motion is actually indicated by investigations of the eclipses observed by the Greeks and Babylonians.

REASON FOR INCREASE

Now the important thing to bear in mind is this: Since a mass of meteoric matter greater than our moon is falling into the sun every century, it is very improbable that the downpour proceeds at a uniform rate. If it does, the chief planets Jupiter and Saturn, which are now near conjunction and are seen together in our evening sky, then should have sudden increases of the sun's radiation just as such as we now witness all over the world.

BAR PLANS FEAST FOR METEOROLDS

Justice J. C. McReynolds of the United States Supreme Court, now vacationing in Southern California, has accepted an invitation from Judge Jeremiah J. Sullivan, president of the San Francisco Bar Association, to speak before that body at a luncheon meeting to be given in his honor.

The invitation from the Bar Association was conveyed to Justice McReynolds by Judge William W. Morrow of the United States Circuit Court. In reply, Justice McReynolds wrote:

15 Berkeley Square, Los Angeles, July 6.

Dear Judge—Thank you very much for your cordial letter.

My purpose is to remain here until the 15th or perhaps the 20th and then to go to San Francisco. At all events I expect to get there during the present month.

My brother is a doctor and his plans are necessarily uncertain. This, of course, renders him less certain than it would be otherwise.

It will give me real pleasure to meet Judge Sullivan and the members of the Bar Association. If you think it well to make them an informal address at luncheon, it will please me so to do.

With the hope of seeing you in the near future and with best wishes, always. Sincerely yours,

J. C. McREYNOLDS.

Assessor Posts Ages of Women; Wait Till Election!

Wilhelm in Tax Tangle Dutch Demand Payment

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, July 9.—Former Emperor William is in conflict with the municipal council at Doorn over the question of paying local taxes, and the pressure of the law is threatened to enforce payment, according to a Doorn dispatch to the Daily Mail.

William is said to contend that the municipality is not entitled to demand the tax levied against him because he came to Holland "unwillingly" and is practically held a prisoner; therefore, he is not liable to taxation as a free citizen.

It is maintained by the council that he came voluntarily.

William, it is added, has also protested against the income tax, which it was decided last October he must pay the Dutch government.

Jack Johnson Quits Prison in Style! Bank Roll, Flashy Wardrobe, White Wife 'I'm Going Into Movies and Into Ring'

By International News Service.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., July 9.—Jack Johnson "collected out of Leavenworth prison" a check for $10,000 this morning.

The former world heavyweight boxing champion had served his sentence of a year and a day for violation of the Mann act and was "squared" with the government, having paid a fine of $1000 imposed with the sentence, last yesterday.

Johnson did not leave at that early hour, however.

His final departure was made about 10 o'clock.

He first went down to the city, where he had breakfast with his white wife, Lucille Cameron Johnson, who arrived from Chicago yesterday, and a party of friends.

Later he returned to the prison with the party, and as a citizen, not as an inmate, showed his wife and friends through the institution.

GETS MOVIE CONTRACT

"I'll never forget this day," said Johnson, as he flashed his golden smile, "came in smiling and I'm going out smiling."

"What are your plans?" he was asked.

He replied: "I'm going to Kansas City for a visit and to fill a movie contract," he replied.

"Then I will go to Chicago, where I will remain until about July 17. Then I am going to New York to arrange for my appearance in the ring."

"I'm going to resume fighting just as soon as possible. I'll be ready for my first appearance in four or five weeks. Right now, I weigh 220 pounds. I'm in splendid condition and only need a grind of final training to be fit."

CARRIES "BANK ROLL"

Johnson was dressed in the height of fashion, having ordered a complete wardrobe before his release. He had asked Warden Biddle to cash checks totaling $433.25 for him in bills of large denominations, but the bank had nothing larger than twenties and a large bale of greenbacks was handed him. Johnson's smile grew more expansive than ever as he "lamped" the size of the roll.

There was a big crowd present as Johnson prepared to take his final departure. A score of cameramen were gathered outside the gates to "take" both "sills" and "movies" of his departure.

BRITAIN TOLD TO REGARD U. S. IN JAP DEALINGS

By Associated Press.

LONDON, July 9.—The London Times gives prominence today to a long dispatch from its Washington correspondent in which he asserts that the concern of the American people over the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty has deepened and that the British desire for a policy parallel to that of America cannot be attained if the alliance is renewed, whatever modifications might be made in it.

Inquiries by the correspondent, however, lead him to assert there is a middle course whereby a satisfactory outcome can be achieved without Great Britain throwing over Japan or abandoning the policy of seeking a closer accord with the United States. This course, it followed, the correspondent believes, would end a situation which, he says, seems dangerously near an impasse.

The plan suggested by the correspondent briefly is this:

Conversations between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, leading eventually to an exchange of notes which might have the following effect:

"The open door policy be reaffirmed and the principle of the maintenance of the territorial integrity of China be extended to all border states on the Pacific; the principle of absolute equality of commercial opportunity throughout the Pacific area be enunciated; the United States, Great Britain and Japan solemnly assert their deep concern for the preservation of peace in the East and engage themselves to all times with friendly co-operation in frankly exchange views."

This plan, the correspondent would open the road to limited armaments, which he contends is possible without some such agreement.

The Times supports the idea, believing the government of Great Britain and the dominions approve it.

Montana Sheriff Killed, Hurt

By Associated Press.

HELENA, Mont., July 9.—Sheriff Huffaker, who was instantly killed when his automobile stepped into the Bluffs, was killed.

Three nurses from who were in the car, escaped with minor injuries. Several of the occupants of the automobile pinned beneath the overturn, but one of the nurses, Miss Greese, managed to dig her way out and walked five miles through the wilderness to summon help. The nurses had been in a summer camp in the Blackfoot country and the sheriff had driven out to bring them into town after their week's outing.

Sheriff Huffaker was 59 years of age and had been a resident of Helena for 38 years. He was prominent in politics, having served as county assessor, postmaster, and at the time of death was serving his second term as sheriff. He leaves a widow.

GEORGE RICE GETS 5 PERCENT COMMISSION, SAYS BROKER

JAVA BABY TAKES VOWS AS AMERICAN CITIZEN AT THE AGE OF 24 HOURS

New light was thrown on the latest George Graham Rice alleged mining scandal today when James A. Hogle, head of J. A. Hogle & Co., Salt Lake City, stock broker and former president of the Salt Lake Stock Exchange, who is in the city on a brief visit, divulged the alleged manipulation and merging of the stock of the Silver Shield and the Bingham and Galena mining companies' stock by Rice and his associates.

"The deal in Bingham and Galena stock, which is a new organization," said Hogle, "resulted in the absorption of the stock of the Silver Shield Mining Company with 500,000 shares issued and owned by the public. By this deal the Silver Shield stockholders were forced to take share for share in the Bingham and Galena Mining Company; but in order to finance the sale of the treasury stock of the Bingham and Galena company the directors of the Silver Shield, who also constituted the majority of the directors of the Bingham and Galena, voted not to distribute the Silver Shield stock converted into Bingham and Galena stock for one year.

"When the directors asked the Public Securities Commission for a permit to sell the stock I and some of my customers," said Hogle, "engaged the services of two attorneys to represent us before the commission in order to present the facts of the case to the commission and so influence it against granting this permit.

"At this public hearing before the commission the joint directors of the Silver Shield and the Bingham and Galena Mining companies admitted that Judge Dodge of Nevada, with whom they had signed the contract, was acting as agent for George Graham Rice; and, furthermore, the former head of the Silver Shield Mining Company, now a director of the Bingham Galena company, admitted that he had gone to Reno, Nev., and brought George Graham Rice to Salt Lake City to finance this deal.

"Following these developments our attorneys demanded that the contract drawn up between the directors of the company and George Graham Rice be produced, but this the Public Securities Commission refused to do and proceeded to grant to the company a permit to list up the Silver Shield stock for one year with the privilege of financing the other stock at a price ranging from 25 cents to 75 cents per share.

"Since this permit was granted a fortnight ago, with the minimum price granted by the Utah Securities Commission, would, therefore, afford Rice a commission of 100 per cent. If more than 200,000 shares were paid for, then the commission would then amount to over 30 per cent.

"Aside from the connection of George Graham Rice with this deal, his worst enemy is the fact that the directors of the Bingham and Galena are opposing their own stock to Rice at the same time that he is selling the treasury stock of the company.

"Effect of this stock received by the directors for their efforts in promoting the Bingham and Galena and for turning over options on other securities to the Bingham and Galena. Meanwhile they are trying up the stock of the Silver Shield for a year so as to permit the manipulation and so called financing of the Bingham and Galena.

"I am glad to make this statement," said Hogle today. "At the time the permit was granted the Salt Lake Tribune printed a report of the attitude of my attorneys and myself toward Rice, and of our objection to him and his manner of financing the company because of the harm and ridicule it would bring to Salt Lake City and its stock exchange and because of the ultimate loss to the people."

Information received from Salt Lake City states that the advertisement published in the Tribune of the stock and appearing under the names of various Salt Lake brokers are being paid for by George Graham Rice and his associates. A telegram which has just been received from Salt Lake City states that Bingham and Galena stock has broken in price from 34 cents to 13 cents per share.

The Salt Lake Tribune came out recently with an alleged expose of George Graham Rice and his methods, and with an account of the attempt that was being made to induce the public to come into the new venture.

K. C. Speakers to Visit Three Councils
A flying squadron of local Knights of Columbus will visit three councils of the order next week. They will speak before San Mateo Council Monday, Calaveras Council Tuesday, and Sacramento Council Thursday.

The squadron will include Joseph L. Sweeney, assistant director of the annual supreme convention; C. Harold Cullen, grand knight of San Francisco Council; and Joseph O'Connor, state chairman of exploitation, Knights of Columbus.

Reid Paris Home Is Given College Women
American college women studying in Paris have been provided a home through the generosity of Mrs. Whitehead Reid, who has been here today. The Calaveras woman has offered her place at 4 Rue de Chevreuse, Paris, to the American Association of University Women. Before the war the building housed a girls' club supported by Mrs. Reid.

Call Expose of Rice Drives Salt Lakers to Cover

Information that The Call stories exposing the activities of George Graham Rice and others in Salt Lake are being watched with the keenest interest by the manipulators of Bingham Galena stock is contained in the following telegram received today:

SALT LAKE, July 9.—Copies of The San Francisco Call of July 2, containing an article connecting George Graham Rice and the brokerage firm of Child, Barclay & Co. with the promotion of the Bingham Galena Mining Company stock were bought up at the newsstand by some one representing the Rice interests. It was impossible to obtain a copy of The Call of that date at any of the street newsstands or hotels where the paper is on sale.

$8,500,000, S. F. BREAD INDUSTRY

The value of bread and other bakery products turned out in San Francisco is $8,500,000 annually, and the business is rapidly expanding, according to a report made by the Chamber of Commerce by William M. Foley, secretary of the California Bakers' Association.

"There are in the neighborhood of 280 bakeries of all types in San Francisco," states Foley. "Six of the largest plants are the most modern to be found in the country. The most recently erected of these is the largest in the United States, and is the last word in plant equipment in the baking industry. The six largest plants represent an investment in the neighborhood of $4,000,000. They turn out about 50 per cent of the bread in San Francisco, where the daily output is a trifle over 300,000 loaves.

"The value of bread and other bakery products in San Francisco aggregates $8,500,000 annually. For the United States bread and bakery products reached the enormous sum of $1,466,146,000 in 1919, the last year for which complete national statistics are available. This represents an increase of 185 per cent in value over bakery products for the five year period since 1914.

"The variety of bread and other bakery products in San Francisco is also greater than almost every other city in the country, because of its cosmopolitan population. There is hardly a known type of bread, pastry or toilet evoked by bakers in overseas countries that cannot be found in San Francisco."

Naturalization Papers Taken Out for Infant Born in Foreign Land

Naturalized at 24 hours of age and turned from a Japanese baby into an American citizen is the unique experience of 3 months old Raymond J. Moore Jr., youngest guest today at the Palace Hotel.

Raymond is the son and heir of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Moore of 2826 West Warren avenue, Detroit, who a year ago one evening left on their wedding day for a honeymoon in far off Java. Wednesday they returned on the steamer Granite State to introduce Baby Raymond to Uncle Sam.

In a dainty crib in the nursery of the Palace Hotel today Raymond kept cool in a little shirt of Java mesh linen. His mother reserves the scratchy, stiffly starched Eton-like jacket, traditionally worn by Japanese babies, for state occasions.

Appropos of the naturalization papers of her young son, Mrs. Moore said that according to the laws of Java, a child must be registered within twenty-four hours after birth. But as a Japanese son was incompatible with the American idea of his parents, Moore visited the American consul at Sourabaya and on the same day took out naturalization papers for one Raymond J. Moore Jr., whom the accident of birth had made a Japanese citizen.

During the next three months the baby learned to watch eagerly for the flickering of a little American silk flag, which was always kept over one side of his crib.

Roy Carruthers Weds S. F. Society Woman

Roy Carruthers, former manager of the Palace Hotel, and Mrs. Dorothy Jacobson, also of San Francisco, were married recently in New York. It became known here today.

Carruthers left the Pacific coast to become manager of the Pennsylvania Hotel when it opened several years ago. For the last year he has been manager of the Waldorf-Astoria.

Mrs. Carruthers was Miss Dorothy Heymann, daughter of the late Henry Heymann, and a sister of Mrs. Melville Schweitzer of this city. She is the widow of Clarence Jacobson of Portland, Ore.

Japs Use Americans As Tools in Evading Land Law, Says Webb

District attorneys throughout the state today are being urged to bend every effort to co-operate with grand juries in obtaining evidence against alien land law violators as provided by the new section of the Penal Code passed by the last Legislature, effective July 28.

Attorney General U. S. Webb in a letter to all district attorneys charged that the land law is being continually violated and evaded by the Japanese of California.

American citizens are being used as "tools" by Japanese in their transactions to evade the law, Webb charges.

TELLS OF ATROCITIES
Asked to cite some of the atrocities which had come under his personal observation Father Galvin related the following stories:

"The home of a cousin of mine, who is the father of six small children, was set afire without warning one morning while all were in bed. My cousin awoke, rushed through the house, and with his wife, rescued the little family. He was injured, however, and has been in the hospital ever since."

Another cousin, a severe sufferer from rheumatism, and unfitted for serious exertion, was compelled by the British to fill in trenches in the mud. He dropped dead on his way home one evening. They refused after a day's work to permit him to ride in his pony cart which had been sent for him.

Another—a clerical student in an ecclesiastical seminary—was accosted by Black and Tans one day and struck over the head with the butt of a rifle. He died from the wound the next day.

BEATING OF CHILDREN TOLD
"And it is a common thing," said Father Galvin, "to see the Black and Tans beat children and old men, and they do not even spare women."

Another result of martial law in Ireland is that those who have information regarding the activities of the republican army and do not divulge it to the British authorities are liable to be shot or their homes burned.

"And since my return to the United States I have heard of the capture of four unarmed boys by the Black and Tans and the execution of three of them. The bodies, denuded of clothing and riddled with bullets."

Speaking of the Black and Tans, Father Galvin remarked:

"They come to Ireland," he said, "to escape long prison sentences, because of the high pay offered, and the opportunities they have for looting. They pay in a pound a day while the British soldier gets but three or four pounds a month. The latter is dissatisfied with the work he has to do in Ireland, and detests the Black and Tans."

U. S. FLAG RESPECTED
"Today the Irish republican army is fighting at odds of fifty to one," said the clergyman, "and is as well disciplined as any army in the world. The soldiers have a distinctive uniform, are equipped much as our soldiers are, and officers rank as they do in the American army."

"What is the feeling in Ireland toward America?" Father Galvin was asked.

"Next to the flag of the Irish republic there is no flag more respected in Ireland than the Stars and Stripes," he replied; "and while there I frequently saw the bodies of Irish soldiers wrapped in both flags."

"The feeling of Ireland in sympathy with the republican movement," said Father Galvin, "the Irish clergy are as well as the republican army, and are willing to abide by the decision of the Dal Einnigh, the elected representatives of the Irish people."

IRISH NOT 'WORN OUT'
"And the republican army," he continued, "the composed of men having the best brains in Ireland, business and professional men, professors and the sons of wealthy farmers. Many of them are brothers of priests and bishops."

After a moment he said: "The common version here in the United States regarding the war in Ireland is that the Irish are endeavoring to take away the government of the British empire, but the real truth is that the British are trying to take away the government of Ireland from the Irish people."

"No, the Irish are not worn out with this war. They are accustomed to suffering, and furthermore they are determined that this shall be the last fight for Ireland's freedom, and that it shall be won. Michael Collins, commander in chief of the republican army, said last April that they had already completed plans for a two years campaign."

"But if the English and the American people knew what the Irish people are suffering, their indignation would be such that peace would have to come soon."

Grove L. Johnson Expects No Fight in Taking New Job

Grove L. Johnson seemingly is less eager to assume than the incumbent is to yield the office of receiver of money for the United States Land Office in Sacramento, to which the father of the senior Senator from this state has been appointed.

The present receiver of money, W. H. Treichner, it has been said, will combat removal.

"When the weather gets a little better I'll probably go back to Sacramento and see what's happened there and get ready to see the job," said Johnson at the Plaza Hotel.

"There won't be any trouble, I imagine. There are ways to do these things, you know. The receiver of money holds his office at the pleasure of the President. That seems to cover some ground."

$5000 MURDER LEADERS BOOST OFFER CHARGED TESTIMONIAL TO MRS. KABER

By MILDRED MORRIS
Staff Correspondent International News Service
COURTHOUSE, CLEVELAND, July 9.
Mrs. Catherine Eva Kaber agreed to pay a gang of Italians $5000 to kill her husband, Daniel Kaber, according to the confession of Mrs. Erminia Calavito, the "poison queen," which was introduced as evidence today in the sensational murder trial.

Faced by the "poison queen," Mrs. Kaber confessed she had purchased "magic medicine" to "make her husband sick," according to the testimony of Phil Mooney, Cleveland police detective. Mooney described the meeting of the accused woman and the "poison queen," after the former was brought back to Cleveland from New York, where she was arrested, following two years' investigation of Kaber's murder.

Mooney testified:

"Mrs. Kaber said: 'There is the woman' when faced by Mrs. Calavito in police headquarters, and then broke down and cried."

"The 'poison queen,' in Mrs. Kaber's presence, confessed, Mooney declared, that the woman had purchased 'magic medicine' to cure her husband of his 'bad habits.'

Mrs. Kaber took Cala, one of the Italians the state claims was hired to kill Kaber, to her husband's bedroom the night before his murder and showed his sleeping body to Cala, so the assassin would know his prospective victim when he came the next day to do his deadly work, according to the confession of the "poison queen."

Nurse Loses Fight For Doctor's Fortune
Mrs. Lelah Templeton, nurse in Dr. Paul Lanz's office for many years, is lower again today in her fight to have the holographic will in which Dr. Lanz left her the entire $100,000 estate declared valid.

Judge E. C. Robinson of the Alameda superior court denied her petition for a new trial. A jury last week declared will valid, holding that Dr. Lanz was of unclouded mind.

Mrs. Ruth Lanz, his widow, brought the suit to break the will.

To Make Rich Red Blood

Revitalize your worn-out exhausted nerves and increase your strength and endurance

Lake Organic Iron; not metallic iron, which is harsh and irritating, but pure organic iron—Nuxated Iron—works like the iron in your blood and like the iron in the blood of the healthy. One dose of Nuxated Iron is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating 100 pounds of spinach, or one quart of green vegetables, or half a dozen apples. It is like taking extra iron to feed the iron in your blood, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron filings.

Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the stomach, but it will build up the blood, and does so without commencing to enrich your blood. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain satisfactory results.

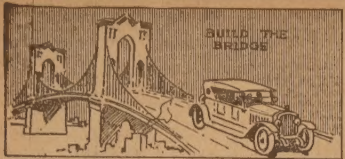

Beware of substitutes. Always insist on getting the genuine Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N. I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists.

S. F. DEALERS PREPARE FOR YOSEMITE RUN

By M. C. HALL

With the co-operation of practically the entire automobile fraternity secured, the success of The Call's San Francisco dealers' run to the Yosemite is a certainty. The big run is less than a month off and already the various distributors are laying plans to make it even a bigger event than the recent much talked of Big Bear excursion of the Southern California dealers.

The first week-end in August has been set for the San Francisco dealers' run, and the Yosemite resorts are planning a regular open house in honor of the Northern California automobile men for August 6, 7 and 8. Foster Curry announces a number of special entertainment events and all who have visited Camp Curry on automobile runs of past years know without being told that a wonderful time is in store for the dealers from the moment they arrive until the Stentor's "farewell" sends them away on their homeward journey.

Complete information on the route of the run will be furnished by Wallace B. Curtis of the Camp Curry organization next week and the list of entries will also be announced at that time. Arrangements are being made for press cars to carry newspapermen and photographers to the valley to cover the dealers' run, which will be the most important get-together of the year for the San Francisco automobile men.

A scout car will be sent over the route of the run just previous to the big event to get up-to-the-minute information on road conditions and to mark the route the run will follow. Arrangements will also be made for the care of the participants in the run on the way into and out of the valley, so that the cars entered can make the best possible time on the run.

WADDELL JOINS RUCKSTELL FORCE

In order to accept a position as an executive of the Ruckstell Sales and Manufacturing Company, of Berkeley, Captain Al G. Waddell has resigned from the Durant Motor Company of California after an association with R. C. Durant for more than five years. When the Chevrolet plant at Oakland first commenced operations in 1916, Waddell resigned the position of automobile editor on a Los Angeles paper and took up the duties of advertising manager at the Oakland plant. This position he held until March 1 of this year when he resigned to join Durant in the new Durant Motor Company of California, along with C. M. Steves, A. L. Warrington and other Chevrolet officials.

While Waddell leaves the Durant Company July 15 and will immediately take up his new duties with the manufacturers of the Perfecto two speed axle products, he will remain a stockholder in the Durant Company and will serve that organization in an advisory capacity on matters pertaining to advertising.

During the time he has been associated with the Durant selling organization, Waddell has served directly under C. M. Steves, recognized as one of the leading sales managers of the motor car industry in the West, and he has been thoroughly trained for the duties he will assume with the Ruckstell Company in the sales of the Perfecto products.

During the war Waddell commanded a battery of French 75's and returned with the rank of captain, after enlisting as a private a few days after war was declared. During his war service he was on leave of absence granted by R. C. Durant at the outbreak of the war, and as soon as he returned from France he was welcomed back into his place in the Durant organization, which was held open for him.

In the golf tournament at Lakeside for the Directors' trophy of the Olympic Club, R. E. Thompson, manager of the Howard Automobile Company, showed his mettle in taking the measure of such a nifty player as "Pat" Stanford. It was a nip and tuck tussle, Thompson forcing Stanford to bite the dust in the nineteenth green.

THE STRANGLER HAS STUDEBAKER

It may not take a champion to pick a champion, but in this case, when Ed ("Strangler") Lewis, famous wrestler of San Jose, bought a Studebaker Special Six, this is exactly what happened.

"It matters not a bit that the 'strangler' recently relinquished his title of champion heavyweight wrestler of the world to another, he is still a champion in character and expects shortly to win back the title," says Chester N. Weaver of the Chester N. Weaver Company, distributors of Studebaker automobiles. "As for Studebaker, our recent sales records prove it to be the world's most popular six-cylinder automobile."

"When Lewis came to buy an automobile, nothing but a champion would do and naturally he called on Bob Benson of his home town for a Studebaker."

"The 'strangler' claims he will regain the championship shortly. 'Then,' says he, 'my Studebaker and I will surely be a championship combination.'"

VALLEY TRAVEL SHOWS INCREASE

June went down in Yosemite history as a record breaker as concerns the number of motorists who pedaled the roads leading into and through the valley, according to Foster Curry of Camp Curry, but judging from the numbers that sought the park over the Fourth of July, the present month will probably exceed June in the matter of automobile traffic to California's popular playground.

Although restrictions on travel into the Yosemite have now been lifted by Superintendent Lewis, all parties desiring to visit the valley are urgently advised to secure confirmed reservations before attempting a journey there. This,

Speed Trials Set; Track Kings Here

Word has just been received from officials of the North Bay Counties Speedway stating that the eliminations for the big speed test of August 14 at Cotati have been definitely set for July 31.

St. J. Francis O'Connor, president of the speedway, is at present in Tacoma, where he has already signed up eight nationally prominent drivers. Among these are Roscoe Searles, Joe Thomas, Eddie Hearn, Tom Alley and Eddie Miller. It is also expected that Tommy Milton will be on the job when the elimination trials of July 31 are staged.

"SAVE YOUR GAS"

Save your gas. An important detail to watch in order to keep your engine running properly is the compression. This is the advice offered to the California motorists by J. W. Frawley of the Frawley Motor Company, distributors here for the Mitchell.

As organizer and president for many years of the great General Motors Company, William C. Durant was responsible for the success of half a dozen of the best known cars on the American market. In 1914 R. C. Durant, his son, came to California to represent the Chevrolet at that time a virtually unknown car in California. His phenomenal success in marketing the Chevrolet here is part of California motor history. Today the younger Durant heads the Durant Motor Company of California, a subsidiary of the Eastern parent concern, and a $2,000,000 factory in Oakland will be producing Durant cars by December of this year. In the new California company, R. C. Durant has associated with himself many of the men who were his lieutenants in his former connection, among them C. M. Steves, A. L. Warrington, George R. Scott, H. T. McKnight and Charles H. Durham.

DON LEE STARTS 17TH CADILLAC YEAR HERE

When Don Lee sat down to his desk Tuesday morning he formally inaugurated his seventeenth year as Cadillac distributor in California.

Lee's fiscal year ended July 1, and, despite the unsettled business conditions of the last twelve months, the Cadillac distributor's sixteenth year has been by far the most successful in the history of his business. More Cadillac cars have been sold in California during the last twelve months than during any twelve previous months. Every Don Lee branch has done a greater volume of business in every department, and Lee's organization starts the seventeenth year with every expectation of making it a bigger year than the sixteenth.

During this time Lee has sold over 20,000 motor cars, of which 13,500 have been new Cadillacs. Over 11,000 eight-cylinder Cadillac cars have been sold by Don Lee in California alone. There has never been a year since Don Lee has been in business when it has been possible for him to obtain all the cars of the various models that could be delivered to buyers. There have been years when the demand so far exceeded the supply that it was necessary to wait from six to ten months to obtain cars. Even today there is a shortage of some models.

It is a source of considerable satisfaction to Don Lee that during the last twelve months there has been a greater demand for Cadillac cars than during any previous year. At no time in the history of the Cadillac has the car stood higher in the public esteem than it does today. It is characteristic of Cadillac sales that demonstrations are seldom asked. People who buy Cadillac cars as a rule have made up their minds that their next car will be a Cadillac months before they place the order.

Don Lee's first venture in the automobile business in California was in Los Angeles, where he handled the Buick. As he had previously been Cadillac agent in 1903 and 1904 in Portland, a deal was made with the Los Angeles dealers at that time to trade the Cadillac account for the Buick account. Don Lee has handled the Cadillac since that shift and ten years ago established in San Francisco and took over the entire state for this line.

Crowded and still more crowded streets and roads have produced a nationwide problem whose simplest solution is a return to the courtesy of the days when knighthood flourished.

The automobile is too vital to the nation, too much a part of the blood and bone of the country's economic life to have its use curtailed through the failure of its users to follow the rules of simple courtesy and safety.

CYCOL TEST IS MADE IN NEW LABORATORY

The adage "The proof of the pudding is in the eating" is now changed to "The proof of the efficiency of a motor oil is not in claims, or so-called 'flash,' 'fire,' 'burn' or 'gravity' tests or base, but in the performance of the motor." For this reason the Associated Oil Company built a scientific motor testing laboratory in their great refineries at Avon, California, replete with the most delicate and accurate scientific apparatus to enable them to definitely test the real lubricating value and durability of their new motor oil creation, Cycol. The results were scientifically compared with the results obtained from numerous other well known motor oils and proved beyond doubt that by economically eliminating the destructive "sulpho" compounds from lubricating oil a master stroke in refining had been accomplished. Scientific investigation showed what a disastrous effect these "sulpho" compounds found in ordinary motor oils had on the engine, and how they destroyed the efficiency of the lubricating film between moving parts. It was learned very definitely that these impurities had no lubricating value and that they were the cause of motor oils breaking down rapidly under engine heat. Many serious and costly motor troubles follow as a result of "sulpho" compounds in oil.

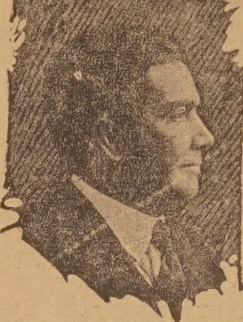

AUTO MARKET NEVER BETTER

The market for the right car at the right price was never any better.

This is the message brought back to San Francisco by F. A. Brinkman, head of the F. A. Brinkman Company, distributors here for the Stevens-Duryea, after an extensive tour of the southern section of the state. Brinkman, together with P. H. Hine, sales manager for Stevens-Duryea, Inc., left last Saturday for the south, with the intention of combining business with pleasure.

"You can't escape the spirit of optimism that prevails throughout the state in the automotive business," states Brinkman. "Wherever you go, whether you are on business or pleasure, the tendency toward normalcy and good times reaches you. I found this very evident on my trip, though Mr. Hine and myself were looking for a diversion. The market for the Stevens-Duryea is responsive throughout Southern California to the value that we are now offering. One vital reason for this demand for our car is the fact that it is a lasting investment."

TRADE WARNING

A recent bulletin issued by the National Associated Advertising Clubs of the World calls the attention of the motoring public to the fact that great quantities of unguaranteed tires, bought from the French government, are about to be offered to the trade in this country.

BIGELOW NAMED SALES MANAGER

Following out his policy of creating the important executives from among the men of his own organization who have shown themselves most fitted, Manager John R. Buck has promoted J. G. Bigelow to the position of sales manager of the Pioneer Motor Company. Bigelow has been associated with the Pioneer Motor Company as a salesman for nearly three years, during which time tireless effort, coupled with his pleasing personality, has won for him countless friends and an enviable sales record. Although born in San Mateo, Bigelow has spent much of his life in the East, where he was a star all-around athlete with Trinity College. Bigelow was an officer in the army for the entire duration of the war, and joined the Pioneer organization immediately following his discharge.

FITCH NAMED DIAMOND HEAD

The recent appointment of E. H. Fitch as director of sales of the Diamond Rubber Company, Inc., Akron, Ohio, is meeting with universal satisfaction not only with the Diamond sales organization but with Diamond distributors all over the United States. Fitch is a well known figure in the rubber industry, having been connected with the Goodrich-Diamond organizations in managerial capacity for over seventeen years.

In 1919 Fitch promoted to Akron, in charge of manufacturers' sales and government specifications for the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, and his recent advancement as director of sales for all Diamond products is a logical move for one of his wide experience. Cranfield-Baston, Inc., are the local Diamond distributors.

National Price Meets Demand of Motoring Public

"Meeting the public demand" is getting to be a favorite slogan these days, not only in automotive circles, but in all branches of merchandising.

The recent drastic price-cut on the National motor car, according to Fred J. Linz of the F. J. Linz Motor Company, National distributor here, is everywhere meeting with a popular reception. The stamp of approval, in the form of numerous favorable comments, has been placed on the National policy of offering the best motor car at the right price.

"We haven't passed through a single day," states Linz, "without receiving numerous inquiries for the National at its new price figure. In this regard we can state that nothing has been lessened but the price on our car."

Maxwell Chief Assumes Duties In Active Charge

William Robert Wilson, the new president of the Maxwell Motor Corporation, assumed his duties on June 16 and is now at the Detroit plant of the company in active direction of Maxwell affairs. This information has reached Lou H. Rose, Maxwell distributor here. In taking up his work, according to advice from the Maxwell factory, Wilson declares that he welcomes the great opportunity presented by his position as president of the Maxwell Motor Corporation.

"During the period I have been out of direct contact with the automotive industry, I have watched its development very carefully," states Wilson. "I feel that the Maxwell offers a wonderful opportunity. It is too early to make any announcement of detail policies, but the public can be assured that the new goodness of the good Maxwell will continue to be developed in a way that will be highly satisfactory to the buyers of our product."

Tracy Norton, who for several years has been on the sales force of H. O. Harrison Company, has been engaged by Sales Manager Eaton McMillan of the Howard Automobile Company, and will now try to hang up a record selling Buick cars. Norton has a wide acquaintanceship in San Francisco and with such a popular seller as the Buick, he should do well.

TERRIFIC PAGE IS SET BY ESSEX

When George Harrison and his mechanic, "Buck" McKelvey, bowled into Reno in their Essex car at the finish of the Nevada Classic desert road race they were acclaimed by thousands—lining the streets of the city. For more than an hour after the large, costly car equipped with special racing body that took first place in the grilling contest of speed and stamina, had finished, the crowd awaited the coming of the Essex, knowing that it safely carried off second honors despite an accident causing it to lose more than two hours. Though the heat of the day was intense, the personal popularity of Harrison and the plucky battle he made if the face of untoward circumstances were sufficient to cause the larger part of Reno's population to wait to do him homage.

It was a terrific test of the speed, the strength, the dependability of a motor car that first Nevada Classic, the success of which has made it a certainty as an annual feature. Out of ten entrants only four cars were able to withstand the fast pace over 1000 miles of desert road, up and down hills requiring the use of gears, along treacherous mountain grades through long stretches of sand, over chuckholes and across gullies and dry washes. One by one the others dropped out, and the fourth car to finish, eight or nine hours after the other three, was described by an observer as being "practically rebuilt on the road."

An idea of what such a contest means from the driver's standpoint may be gleaned from some of the comments of Harrison made shortly after the race had gone on the historic page.

"When we entered the Essex in this race," he said, "I had a definite plan in view. It was to keep well toward the front for the first two and a half days and then, mindful of the speed and strength of my car, to make a whirlwind finish that I believed would force me past other cars which I did not think could stand the speed in rough country, of which I knew my own to be capable. But I made just one mistake—I did not remove fenders and running boards, as did all the others. Had I done this the result might have been different."

"When we left Tonopah on the last day the Essex was exactly 33 minutes behind the large car taking first place. At Yerington I had reduced this lead to seven minutes. We were entering Gardnerville at a speed of about a mile a minute when a fender bracket broke from the terrific pounding the car was undergoing on the rough road, and dropped between the axle and steering arm. The steering arm broke and we jumped a two-foot ditch, tore out a section of fence, jumped back across the ditch, ran along the road for about 50 yards and then plunged into the ditch again and stopped. It is a wonder that we didn't upset."

"We sent for a steering arm and tie rod, and the best we could get was one for a Hudson, which was a trifle large. We had to file it down to insert the arm in the axle and then it held by only two threads. It gave way later and had to be fastened with barbed wire taken from a fence. When I saw that there was no chance of overtaking the big car, two hours time having been lost, I merely coasted into Reno, as I knew that I still had second place by about two and a half hours. Our time was 31 hours 53 minutes 2 seconds or an average of almost 33 miles an hour over the roughest country in America."

BANKS TAKE UP AUTO PAPER, IS REPORT

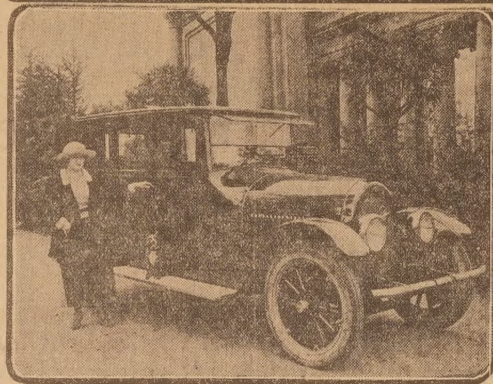

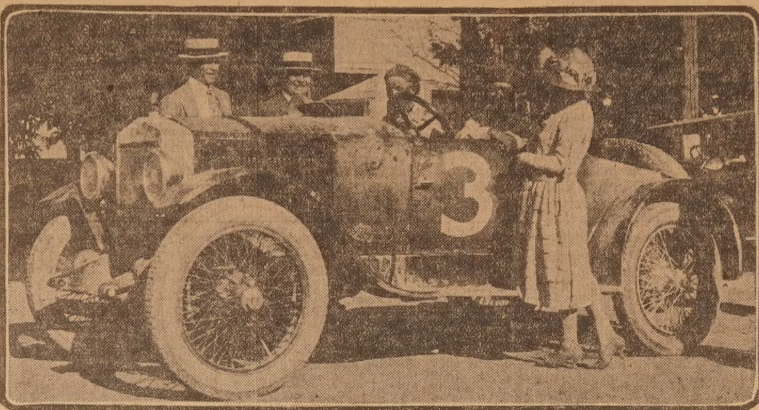

Motor truck manufacturers, dealers, owners and financial institutions throughout the country are showing deep concern in the announcement of the Kansas City Federal Reserve Bank that it is beginning to take high class, solvent, liquid and otherwise eligible motor car paper. It is well known that for several months financial institutions have been looking askance at automotive paper, the idea being that it was not a preferential risk.

Governor Harding of the Kansas City Federal Reserve Bank probably was the first in the country to tighten the reins on automotive loans. Recently he declared that through the assistance of the federal reserve system danger of a financial panic had been averted and that the time now had come for a forward move all along the line.

"Those in control of the financial resources of the country have learned to differentiate in respect to automotive paper," said R. H. Morris, manager of the Mack-International Motor Truck Corporation, distributors for Mack trucks. "It is very evident that they will not return to the haphazard way of loaning their money. Motor vehicles that have proven to be worthy investments, dealers who have shown sound methods and manufacturers who have not been compelled to convert their assets into ready cash, are going to receive more liberal consideration in the future. The days of careless abandon in the automotive business have passed. The wading out process is now well under way and those institutions that survive will be the better regarded in public esteem for having met the crisis."

ESSEX GREETED IN RENO

Marked enthusiasm was witnessed when the Essex reached the finishing post at Reno on the third day of the 1000 mile Nevada desert road race. George Harrison, the driver of the car defeating every contestant in its price class, is shown here receiving the congratulations of the admiring throng.

FAIL TO INJURE SAVAGE TIRES IN TESTS

Some interesting tests were recently made at the Sprinkle's Savage Tire Company's factory to try the strength of the new Savage cord, according to advice received from George W. Greene, superintendent. He states that a six-ply Savage cord, which had been inflated on a regular rim to 105 pounds pressure and then mounted on an auto wheel, was dropped four consecutive times from the roof of a three story building upon a concrete pavement. No apparent injury to the tire resulted from this severe test, although it is said that the sudden strain upon the casing caused by its impact with the pavement must have been terrific. The tire remained firmly fixed to the rim notwithstanding the force of the blow and the fact that the rim was badly bent during the test.

In another experiment a Savage cord was mounted on a rim, connected directly to a hydraulic pump and subjected to a hydraulic pressure of 1450 pounds per square inch without any resultant injury to the tire. When it is considered that the severe government tests require that tires stand but a maximum pressure of 350 pounds, it is readily seen what a tremendous strain this casing was subjected to. As in the test above mentioned, the tire adhered firmly to the rim. The remarkable strength of the Savage cord bond, due largely, says Greene, to the interlocking bead feature that is original with this tire, is nicely demonstrated by these experiments; and also they serve to show undeniably the built-in strength and perfect balance of this cord casing.

APPERSON CUTS PRICE ON ALL MODELS

Here is the announcement of a motor car price reduction with a punch behind it.

Word has just been received by Leroy D. Frasier, Apperson distributor here, telling of a sweeping price reduction made by the Apperson Bros. Automobile Company of Kokomo, Ind., the first among the old line manufacturers of high grade eight cylinder cars to announce a radical cut.

In a communication from Edgar Apperson, president of the company, it is stated: "Effective now, prices of Apperson Standard and Anniversary models will be reduced from $250 to $750."

"I can do no more than quote Apperson's communication," states Frasier. "He says, 'We have taken this action, for we believe similar action on the part of all manufacturers in all lines of business will be a constructive measure. Because of increased facilities at our plants in Kokomo, combined with lowering markets, it is possible for us at last to build a better car for less money.'"

Why Hudson's Endurance Limit Is Still Unknown

It will be years before we know the life limit of the Hudson Super-Six.

But already it is evident that endurance is doubled through the Super-Six invention which reduces vibration to practically nil.

That is why mileage means almost nothing to Hudson. It is why you daily see Super-Sixes, three, four and five years old (many now beyond their 100-thousandth mile) that are giving service not appreciably less smooth and able than when they were new.

These cars are not immune from wear. Nothing that moves is. But in the Super-Six wear is so slow, and compensating adjustments so simply made that nothing short of gross neglect will diminish its smoothness and capacity for many years.

Because of this far longer service, men have regarded it as the outstanding value among all fine cars ever since the Super-Six invention. They know they are not buying Hudson's distinctive performance for just a season or so. They know it will give that same sort of delightful service for many years.

DODGE PRICE IS OLDS "TWIN 4" LOWER THAN AVERAGE HAS SPEED, POWER

"Dodge Brothers motor cars now sell for only 25 1/4 per cent more than when the line was introduced, whereas the average price of 337 commodities is 54 per cent higher than the pre-war level, and 56 per cent higher than it was in 1914, when John and Horace Dodge put out their first car," H. O. Harrison yesterday declared.

"When prices on our line were reduced 25 per cent on June 8, several things happened. One of them was that the market for this particular line was almost instantly reversed; from being a buyers' market it became once more a sellers' market. Another thing was that the competitive position of the line was completely altered, unavoidably shifting the competitive positions of a number of other lines at the same time. But perhaps the most significant point was that the shift practically pegged the automobile market in general."

"This last assertion can be explained by saying that Dodge Brothers, perhaps more than any other line, is a recognized basis for comparison in the industry. As an automobile, this product is therefore subject, in respect to both manufacture and sales, to the same general influences that affect the manufacture and sale of all motor cars. Unlike most other makes, however, it has attained tremendous volume on what amounts to a one-model basis."

Foyle Reports Business Boom; Roesch Visitor

Reports of an increase of business in the East and Middle West arrive in California where a corresponding healthy condition of affairs is prevalent.

C. A. Roesch, head of the Alenite Lubricator Company of California, is a visitor in this city, making his headquarters with R. W. Foyle, at the Alenite Lubricator Company here. Roesch has just finished an extensive tour of several weeks through the East and Middle West and brings word of flourishing conditions in the territory east of the Rockies, together with details of still another product soon to be placed on the market, which will eliminate more of the worries attendant on motoring.

"While in Chicago," states Roesch, "I met E. W. Bassick, president of the Bassick Manufacturing Company, and had a very interesting talk with him. His concern placed the Alenite lubricating system on the market less than two years ago, and now more than 75 per cent of the standard motor cars and trucks have that system as standard equipment."

Later the Bassick penetrating oil for springs and rusty bolts was invented, and that, too, proved a huge success.

It is the general consensus of opinion in the automotive world that when you combine in a light car speed with smoothness of operation you have something that is marketable anywhere. Car owners throughout the country grant this truth.

According to J. W. Leavitt, of J. W. Leavitt & Co., Oldsmobile distributors here, the new Oldsmobile Twin Four, model 47, is designed to fill this demand for a light, fast car of exceptional performance with speed range on high gear from 5 to 75 miles per hour and with a smoothness of operation at the higher and lower speeds peculiar to a good eight cylinder car.

"To accomplish this result," Leavitt states, "the designers of the car have produced an engine which, due to its splendid cooling system and clever design of the gas passages, responds willingly to the demands of sustained speed with wide open throttle."

"A feature of the cylinder design is that each cylinder bore or barrel is entirely surrounded by water, and the water is distributed evenly throughout the cylinder block by a water manifold with five outlets to each cylinder block. The engine is equipped with two water pumps, each block having its own pump, and the result is that a splendid cooling of the cylinder bores is obtained, permitting, as stated, sustained high speeds. This is a result that is rare in ordinary stock cars. The engine is mounted in the same chassis as the celebrated Oldsmobile Four, which has the peculiar advantage of holding the road nicely at high speeds."

"I have driven this Twin Four on the dirt roads of Michigan at sustained speeds around 60 miles per hour. At these higher speeds on gravel roads the floating sensation is very agreeable. On smooth, straight stretches the car can be driven at sustained speeds higher than 80 miles per hour. This car, having a wheel base of only 115 inches, handles very nicely on traffic, so that it is a very satisfactory car for all around use for those who want a car of super-performance."

NEWLY CROWNED CHAMPIONS OF THE TRACK AND FIELD

The national meet at Paddock Field, Pasadena, Cal., brought a number of promising athletes to the fore. Records fell like rain during the three days of competition. The various Eastern competitors make their appearance today at California Field, where the P. A. A. invitation meet is being staged. These photographs by INTERNATIONAL present some of the winners in the junior championships. Left to right, Earl Frazier of Baylor University, Waco, Tex., beating Johnny Norton of the Olympic Club in the low hurdles. Frazier set a new mark of 25.2-5 seconds; Dick Emmons of the Los Angeles Athletic Club going over the bar at 12 feet 7 3/4 inches for a new record; Eddie Sudden of the Olympic Club breasting the tape in the 220 yard dash, setting a new junior record of 22 seconds flat, and George Stanton of the Olympic Club winning the 56 pound weight throw.

CORBETT MISSED CLEVER MOVES IN FIGHT

By TAD
Written for the International News Service.
NEW YORK, July 8.—Jim Corbett didn't know whether to keep on laughing or start crying when the writer saw his yesterday. Jim was thinking about the story he had read about the Dempsey-Carpenter fight. "I must be blind," he said, with a perplexed look. "You know I was at the fight, but on the level I don't see half the things those experts write about. The stories about the marvelous footwork, the lightning like thrusts and the graceful dodging—say, how do they get that way?"
There was nothing in that whole fight that showed either man one bit clever. Carpenter is a pretty good fighter, but I wouldn't say he was clever. I'd call him Griffo; Dempsey the Nonpareil; Tommy Ryan and Jack McAuliffe clever. But I couldn't honestly say that Carpenter classes with those fellows.
"Carpenter has the fastest right hand I've ever seen, and I've seen a lot of right hands in my time. But he does nothing at all in the clever line. The fellow is a cat. He watches for openings and unless his opponent is quick as a flash or has an iron jaw, Carpenter will give him a lot of trouble."
"Dempsey didn't show me any cleverness at all. The stories I read of the fight were just a lot of talk. He was clever, but I didn't see any of it."
"Dempsey is more like Jeffries than any other heavy I've ever seen. He is a big strong fellow with a powerful punch and an iron jaw. They talk about matching him with Brennan or Gibbons. That would be murder. Right now there isn't a man in the world who has a chance with him. He's too young and strong for them. His body blows will stop any of them in a few rounds."

TRACK STARS IN BIG MEET TODAY

Some of the greatest track and field stars in the United States will perform on the California Oval at Berkeley this afternoon, in the invitational track carnival to be held under the auspices of the Pacific Association of the A. A. C. C. Keen rivalry looms between the teams representing the Olympic and New York Athletic clubs, Brick Miller, the Olympian's best bet, is in a Los Angeles hospital with a fever. The mile run between Jole Ray, the world's record holder; John J. Connelly of Georgetown and Larry Shields of Boston should prove to be a real thriller. There is also a possibility that Bob Watson, the Kansas wonder, will compete in this event.

Other events include the broad and high jump, the 120 and 440 yard dashes, the pole vault, hop, step and jump, one mile walk, five mile race and other events, including the shot put, discus and javelin.

Harness Matinee At Park Stadium

The weekly meet of the San Francisco Driving Club takes place every afternoon at the Golden Gate Park stadium at 1:30. The three races which have been carried are excellent, so the harness enthusiasts who have some choice finishers. A large crowd is expected on account of the popularity of the sport.

J. McNamara's Ethel Mack has a very fine chance of winning all the races at all places, although she will have a fast field in Leo Roberts' Leander, E. H. Metz's Seventh Son and Frank Collins' Gold Harry to oppose her. All these horses have won races, so they don't relish having any other opponent brush under the wire ahead of them.

Bantams Top At Young's Fight Card

Jimmy Bell and Angelo Angelopoulos, two of the best bantams now boxing in the local ring, have been matched by Promoter Al Young for the main event of the Association Club's show next Wednesday evening. They're shifty lads and should make a fast fight. The remainder of the card follows: Eddie Brown vs. Edna Williams, 15 pounds; Frank Parlow vs. John Cunningham, 150 pounds; George Woods vs. Harry Wallace (colored), 115 pounds; Eddie O'Day vs. Art Berry, 125 pounds; Jack Fuke vs. Eddie Griffin, 15 pounds; Charlie Mason vs. George Lynnis, 115 pounds; Johnny Walsh vs. Her Ables, 105 pounds.

Darcy Loses Decision To Farmer in North

PORTLAND, Ore., July 9.—Frank Farmer, Tacoma lightweight, won a ten-round decision over Darcy Darcy of Portland in the main event of the Portland boxing commission's show here last night. Frankie Murphy of Denver was awarded the decision over Jack Johnson of Oakland, Cal., at the end of six rounds.

Mission League to Be Reorganized

The row which has been brewing in the Mission League took a new turn today when the directors of the Gilroy Club announced that they were finished and would not permit their players to participate in any more games unless the league was reorganized.
It is possible that a new circuit will be formed without the San Jose Club. Recently the league voted on two questions, the reinstatement of Hal Chase and the elimination of the San Jose Club. The attempt of Chase to resume playing was blocked, but some of the insurgents failed in their plan to oust the Garden City team.

Athletics at Picnic on Sunday
Coach Frank Foster of the Olympic Club announced today that seven events have been listed and entries will close on July 13 for the sports tournament to be staged under P. A. A. sanction in Shellmound Park on Sunday, July 17, at the annual outing of the original Gaelic Dancing Club. The events are open to all registered P. A. A. athletes and to members of the Gaelic Athletic League who have P. A. A. registration cards.

YANKEE SCOUT ANXIOUS TO CLOSE FOR O'CONNELL

Bob Connery Will Bid Against Other Major League Clubs for Young Seal Player

By JOHN J. CONNOLLY
JIMMY O'CONNELL has an excellent chance of becoming a member of the New York Yankees next spring and of playing alongside of "Babe" Ruth in the outfield.

Bob Connery, Yankee scout here, wants O'Connell and is not going to leave any stone unturned to consummate the deal before his departure for home the latter part of this month. If Connery is successful and can close for the "Baby Seal" he will guarantee the local club an even exchange in the way of players, something other major league clubs cannot do, or at least failed to do, last season.

In all the deals the Yankees have had with Vernon they haven't once disappointed them in delivering players to take the place of the men they bought. It is said many times that it was the generosity of the Yankee owners that brought two pennants to Vernon. Connery is particularly keen on O'Connell. He is just the type of player the Yanks need for their outfield. With Ruth and Meusel counted on as regulars, Huggins wants another left-handed hitter who is fast and who can piccolo the old baseball. Connery believes O'Connell is just the man to round out the Yankees outfield. "Baby Seal," he says, is due to return to the minor leagues in another season or so. At present "Chick" Fawcett, an infielder, is covering among the daisies. Bode has been benched. Detroit will probably bid for Caveney. Donnie Bush, veteran pastime, is about through, and Ty needs a good shortstop. So with Caveney apt to be sold to Detroit and with the Giants and New York Yankees seeking O'Connell, fans around these parts are likely to see some very fancy bidding before the curtain is drawn on the 1921 race.

There is some doubt as to whether Manager Graham will drop any more than one player this year. If such is the case it is very likely that Caveney and not O'Connell will be missing next season.

Caveney is sought after by Detroit. Other clubs are also after him. The Yankees are not seeking infielders, that is why Connery is not particularly interested in the work of "Babe" Ruth. Fawcett, "Home Run" Baker and Wally Pipp are all the infielders the Yankees need.

But Connery engineered the deal for Bob Meusel with the Vernon club and practically sent them an entire new ball club and it is more than a possibility that if he can arrange a deal that the local owners can hardly turn down. It is not a possibility that they can do so.

Billy Cunningham, Seattle outfielder, who was sold to the New York Giants, is on his way to join the club. At the time the deal was made it was thought McGraw would allow him to remain here for the balance of the season.

Cunningham leaves the Coast League team as one of the most mature young fellows who has been sent up in many a season. There isn't any one department of the game that Bill isn't right up to "snuff" in. He has shown himself to be a great hitter, one of the best "getters" in the league and a demon on the bases. His throws to the plate from the outfield has been a feature of his work for over three years, so on paper the big Gotham team should be Bill's racket.

Dick Egan, who served many years in the big leagues and who has some idea what he is talking about, dropped in from St. Helena yesterday en route to Cincinnati. Like all the big capitalists, Dick goes on a vacation every year, and this year he happens to be returning to the town in which he starred as a second sacker.

Egan was quite impressed with the team. He is quite sure that the Seals are one of the best minor league clubs he has ever seen. The Seals ought to win the pennant, said Dick. "If they are fully 5 per cent stronger than last year, have a well balanced ball club and one that isn't slow. Any time men come in from third on base hits and come in from third on sacrifice hits they have the percentage with them."

The work of Harry Kasso this year is causing a lot of argument. Oakland players say "Doc" Findlay, former Los Angeles trainer, is largely responsible for his arm being in good shape, and Seals players believe "Doc" Carroll deserves the credit. It is therefore quite interesting to know what "Handsome" Harry, the Beau Brummel of the Richmond district, has to say about it. "My arm is in better shape this year than it has ever been in my life before," says Harry. "Before 'Doc' Findlay joined the club I had it treated by 'Doc' Carroll of the Seals, and he worked wonders with it. 'Doc' Findlay this year began just where 'Doc' Carroll left off, and with two trainers like these fellows working on it, how the deuce could a fellow have a sore arm? If you ask me who is responsible for putting my arm in such good shape I'd say two of the greatest trainers in the world."

Valentine, a young pitcher Joe Devine sent to the Oaks from the Calgary club, got into action for awhile yesterday, but had quite some difficulty finding the plate. The kid was apparently upset, for he looked to have a pretty good curve ball. One wit in the press room remarked that Valentine was at his best on February 14.

Jake Croter always seems to get into a jam. If the fact yesterday had been a close one the Seals would have all "blown up." With a runner on second and third, and two and three on the batter, Maury Rath started for home. Kamm, who was at bat, clearly saw that the ball was high and wide and let it go. Instead of allowing Kamm a base on balls, Jake called Rath out for a strike. Roger Rosenbush explained that the pitcher stepped out of the box before he threw the ball.

Sam Agnew was charged with a mental bout in the first inning and it also cost the Seals a run. His lineup to the ump called for Ellison batting third. He forgot. The ump called for the Seals' lineup came up and sacrificed Schick home the Oaks protested and the run didn't score.

Bill Clymer, former Seattle manager, is out as boss of the Toledo club and Fred Luderus has replaced him. Bill Clymer, Rosenbush, chief owner of the club, couldn't get along, so they had to fire Bill. Luderus was slated to join the Seals last winter, but went to Toledo instead.

The reason Detroit sent Sude Sutherland back to Portland is explained in this week's Sporting News by H. G. Salsinger. Sal says Sude's last ball was too slow and his "screw" curve ball wasn't any good without a fast one.

Now it develops that Portland could have signed Duffy Lewis if he wanted to. Lewis wired the McCreidies when he became a free agent asking for a salary. Mac couldn't see, but Salt Lake isn't any better fixed than Portland and they met his terms.

Doc Strub and other owners of the local club better watch all the peanut butchers for a gent named Spiller, who ran the refreshment concession at the Atlanta Southern Association Park, has just bought a controlling interest in that club.

Jimmy O'Connell hit into right field at Recreation Park yesterday for the first time this season. Three blows earned off the screening. Jim says he can always hit into right on a ball, but that somehow he can't get away with it here.

Willie Kamm rifled a homer into the left field bleachers in the second round that was a dandy. The ball hit up near the top of the scoreboard. The next time out Willie made Hack Miller rub his back against the fence before he could drag in his wallet.

All the Seal players got one or more hits yesterday. For eight innings, Kamm, who was at bat, was going to miss out, but in the ninth he came up smiling and poked a single past Jack Knauer.

Maury Rath robbed Louis Guisto of a hit and took two runs away from the Oaks by spearing a line drive and converting it into a double play. That play pulled O'Connell out of a line jam.

Joe Kelly kept up his good stick work yesterday by hitting out two bingles. As the season grows older Joe seems to get better. His work in the outfield is of high order, and he is tripping around the paths like Charley Faddock.

"BRICK" MORSE HAS PEEVE AT HIGH SCHOOL AUTHORITIES

Says Track Athletics Are Discouraged Rather Than Encouraged by Athletic Moderators

By "BRICK" MORSE
NOTICED that several of the championship team of the Los Angeles Athletic Club were high school boys. I noticed also that the Olympic Club of San Francisco had no high school boys on its list. This lack was not the fault of Frank Foster. He certainly would have put high school boys on his team if there were any worth while. There are none. San Francisco, once the greatest breeding place in the world for high school athletes, has gone to decay. Why? Simply because the Board of Education, the high school principals, or the director of athletics is handicapping our boys by every foolish rule that was ever invented.

Why regulate the boys so? Why not make things easy for them instead of making them despise you by forcing them to eat things for which they have no stomach. I have numerous letters from San Francisco high school boys and I know how they feel. They would like to belong to the California Intercollegiate Federation and have a chance in track athletics with the other fellows. They would like to get this Rugby thing out of their systems and be Americans once more. Yet they cannot. They are preyed over by a stupid big stick, apparently know nothing about athletics, which does not get the boy's point of view and cares little about it anyway. There are few of us so original that we can think any different from the ordinary mind. The consensus of opinion now among high school principals, directors of athletics and school boards is that the boys shall be encouraged in track athletics and should play American football. The bright educators of San Francisco evidently think differently.

We San Franciscans are immensely proud of the record of the California football team, the track team and the basketball team. It's been one of the greatest athletes we have had. Yet how many San Francisco boys were on those teams? Hardly one. The boys were mostly from Southern California and interior towns. If athletics were not regulated beyond all reason in the high schools of San Francisco, and Oakland too, for that matter, about one-half of the athletes who are bringing us fame would be from the bay region.

Miller has been in training for the past two weeks and is in excellent shape. This is understood, has been doing plenty of hard work up North and will make a desperate effort to take the title from Miller.

CHAMP HELD AND HIT GEORGES IN CLOSE

By JAMES J. CORBETT
Former Heavyweight Champion of the World. Written Expressly for the International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The old custom of holding a fight between two heavyweights is being legislated out of boxing. Sooner or later, just as sure as my name is Jim Corbett, the method of fighting will get the game into ill repute and it is up to those who sponsor boxing to hit the legislature out of boxing.

The recent Dempsey-Carpenter fight furnished an example of it. I am not taking anything away from Dempsey's victory or criticizing him in the slightest. Nor am I making any attempt to smooth out any part of Carpenter's defeat. He surprised everyone by his kind of a fight he made. When he walked into Dempsey and started fighting him at his own game even the champion was nonplused. But that was what Dempsey wanted. He simply advanced to meet Carpenter with both hands held in readiness to start working like piston rods in close quarters and about half the time the champion belted Carpenter in the midriff while blocking or holding him with the other hand. Of course, tried to do the same, but he had not the strength to cope with Dempsey and got the worst of it.

GOLF MOGULS MAP PLANS FOR PLAY

Dr. Paul Hunter to Defend
State Golf Title at Del
Monte in Sept.

By FRANK P. NOON
The tournament committee of the California Golf Association, of which James A. MacKenzie is chairman, are working out a program of events to be held in connection with the California state amateur golf championship, to be held at Del Monte, September 3-11, it was learned today.

From authoritative sources it was learned that both the 36 and Pebble Beach courses will be used for the qualifying round, and it is highly probable that a similar arrangement to last year will be used in scheduling match play in the finals.

The Del Monte women's golf championship will be held at the same time as the amateur title competition for men and much interest is being aroused among the fair players over the coming event.

Dr. Paul Hunter, the state amateur champion, who made such an excellent showing in the British amateur and open championships, will be on hand to defend his title. A record number of players are coming up from Southern California for the championship, according to advices received by Fred Turner at Del Monte. One of two crack amateurs from the Northwest are also likely to enter the tournament. Norman Macbeth, who won the Northern California men's championship here in February, will also make a bid for the title now held by the Pasadena medalist, Jack Neville, former title holder, is playing excellent golf and will undoubtedly be among the top-notchers in the championship fight, if he finally decides to enter the tournament.

Local golfers who contemplate entering the tournament may obtain full particulars by communicating with Sports Manager Fred Turner at Del Monte.

Joe Novak, the Spokane Country Club professional, established a new record for the course last Monday afternoon when he negotiated the course in 58. Par is 69. According to advices received here Novak went out in 34 and made the hole in 24, in the same number of strokes.

Many of the American professional and amateur golfers who competed in the British open event last month will play in the national open championship tournament which starts late this month over the country club course, at Chevy Chase, Md.

Hatt Martin, Southern California open champion, has left Los Angeles for Lake Placid, N. Y., where he will assume the management of the Lake Placid Country Club, according to advices received here yesterday.

Following is a schedule of golfing events to be held here and at the various resorts during the month of July:

July 9-10, Wawona—Eighteen holes, medal score.

July 10, Tahoe Tavern, Lake Tahoe—Blind Bogey competition.

July 11, Tahoe Tavern, Lake Tahoe—Approach and putting contest.

July 14-17, Wawona—Sierra championship. Best gross score championship cup.

July 18-20, Del Monte—California junior championship.

July 24, San Francisco—Lincoln Park Golf Club vs. Stockton Golf and Country Club.

July 23-24, Wawona—Blind Bogey competition. Eighteen holes.

July 20-31, Wawona—Match play vs. par.

Ashton Stanley, who won the final state junior golf championship in 1919, is at Del Monte practicing up in the mountains for the state tournament on July 21 to 24. There are also a number of other boys who are looking forward to the holding of the championship. San Jose has always been represented and San Francisco and Los Angeles will have their representatives on hand.

Mortie Duto, the Pebble Beach professional, distinguished himself over the Fourth of July holidays by making the seaside course in 87. He was out in 33 and home in 54. This is the best mark that has ever been set at Pebble Beach. W. S. Hook of Los Angeles was playing with Duto at the time.

The summer tournament at Del Monte on August 12 to 14 is a new event on the Del Monte calendar and it is expected to prove popular with the players. It will afford them an opportunity of playing in some serious competition in preparation for the state championships which follow a couple of weeks later.

England Beaten In Cricket Match

LEEDS, Eng., July 9.—Australia defeated England in the third game of their cricket match here yesterday and retained the cricket title between the two countries.

Australia first captured the title last year, when they defeated England in three straight games in Australia.

His Seventy-Fifth Birthday

THE OLD TOWN is seventy-five years old today and deserves congratulations. He is a self-made city and he is proud of himself. Born in an adobe hut on the eastern shore of the Pacific Ocean, he made the very best of his native opportunities and gained world fame before he was out of his teens. He was a precocious youngster and he passed his youth in the hard school of experience, knowing little of family life, much of the society of men, and almost nothing of the softer graces of civilization.

But he survived precocity, as but few talented creatures do. Adored and sought by all the world, he kept his head and sudden riches did not make the young city slothful. Strong young manhood came, and marriage, and many children. And old San Francisco saw his sons and daughters, strong and ambitious, grow to their maturity and seek ventures afar. Many stayed with their father. But many more wandered over the earth, in many lands, on many quests, seeking in vain in other cities what they could find only in their San Francisco. But the hearts of these children were always at home, and always they returned.

And so old San Francisco sits today in his seat by the Golden Gate, old yet young, rich in memories but strong with brave ambitions, surrounded by his children and his children's children and a friend to all the world. He is grave and he is gay, he has borne heavy losses in his lifetime and known many rare compensations, he has seen something of life and he is glad to see much more. And on his seventy-fifth birthday he knows that he is still very young and that years mean little to a man whose heart is brave and whose spirit has sweetness and strength.

Standing on Two Feet

MEN MARVEL at the fierce strength of a Dempsey or the great explosive speed of a Paddock. How wonderful that one man, like the heavyweight champion, should be able to knock out another man with just one blow of his padded fist! How marvelous that another man can run a distance of 100 yards in nine and three-fifths seconds! Normal, ordinary men can do neither of these feats of energy and force—and normal, ordinary men are moved to admiration.

But there's nothing so strange about Dempsey's fighting and Paddock's running. The miracle is not that one can hit harder and the other run faster than any other men alive, but that each of them, and all other men, can accomplish that commonplace and complicated task of standing unaided on their two feet. That's miracle enough for any man, the simple fact of standing upright.

An aeroplane can go 200 miles an hour; but, except the wind is blowing against it, it cannot remain still for a second without falling. A bicycle remains upright as long as it is moving; it topples the moment it is still. Every man can run; the marvel is that every man can stand still without falling on his face immediately. Place a dead or a paralyzed body on its feet and the slightest touch of the finger or breeze would destroy its balance. Give the body the miracle of life—with all the delicacy, sensitivity, and quickness of adjustment that is meant by the term—and the laziest, most ignorant, and most vicious human being that ever lived can perform this marvelous feat of standing alone. But he won't get $200,000 for his trouble and will sit down as quickly as possible.

Nuts and Raisins

AN EASTERN OBSERVER has noticed a great increase in the number of nut stores in New York in the last two years. He wonders whether the same increase has been noticed here, and wonders why it is so. Candy shops and restaurants have grown more numerous. But that can be explained. Lack of alcohol has made men turn to the sugar in candy, men who used to stifle their appetites with liquor now eat hearty meals. But why is it that more nuts are being sold?

C. H. Goudiss, who is editor of the Forecast, says that human beings eat as much meat in two weeks (by weight) as they eat nuts in a year. And this, though nuts "are the most highly nourishing of all foods." They contain more concentrated nutriment than milk or bread or vegetables or meat, but few people ever eat them except as an incidental at the end of a meal. This is strange because man in his primitive state ate much more of nuts than of meat. He ate meat when he was lucky or if he was exceptionally strong and skillful. But he could eat nuts whenever he wished to climb a tree. He could save nuts for the winter, but was not always able to save up a supply of meat. How can one explain—except that his nose may have voted in favor of the roast on the spit?

Even raisins, says Goudiss, are not treated as fairly as they should be. "Nuts and raisins ornament the holiday table and are passed in a perfunctory way at the close of a monster meal. A host who had beefsteak handed around as a finale to the feast would be regarded as the unfortunate victim of incipient insanity. Yet in food value alone the raisins, served as a delicacy to top off the meal, are twice as rich as steak."

So much for the good name of nuts and raisins.

REACTIONS FROM THE PRIZEFIGHT: The Value of Publicity, Looking Under the Surface, A Self-righteous Clergyman, Some Economic Incongruities.

THE people that are talking somewhat censoriously about the prizefight, it seems to me, are making too much of the matter. It isn't as bad as they try to have it seem to be. It isn't all brutality. The people that paid large sums for the privilege of being present weren't actuated by cruel impulses. Let's see if we can't figure out what they did go for.

In the first place, there was the enormous appeal of the event. It resulted very largely from publicity. The two fighters were among the most advertised men in the whole world. It might not be an exaggeration to say that for some weeks before the event they were, of all men, the most discussed. In itself this circumstance may not be wholly creditable to our civilization. It would be, obviously, a finer thing if the two most discussed persons in the world were of saintly character, idealists whose example could give to life a more significant and a more beautiful meaning for most of us.

When we reason in this way, however, we leave out of account life as it is, with the multitude of forces playing through it all the time. There's no money in saintly people as public examples. The newspapers don't take the interest in them that might be taken to the common advantage. A saint seldom reaches the first page. You won't find him played up as a millionaire banker is played up who brings a suit for divorce against his wife. Though the spiritual life may have its adventures they can be appreciated as such by the comparatively few.

The prizefight, on the other hand, is related to those animal instincts that are at the base of our everyday activity and are considered an important part of the masculine equipment. Physical prowess, moreover, is pretty closely related to qualities that are moral. It's very hard, for instance, to say where physical courage ends and moral courage begins. They overlap. They blend. Among some people nowadays it's the fashion to be rather scornful of courage, because it's physical. But it has its place in the world just the same, and a very important place, too. It's true that it leads to a good deal of mischief by being allied to qualities that are not admirable, selfishness and bullying; but a similar charge may be made against moral courage, with its insistence on unpopular points of view, its conceit and its arrogance, its frequent betrayals of readiness to do things not strictly honorable in order to have its way.

The people that are most violent in their denunciation of the prizefight show that they have no realization of the skill involved and the art. To them it's nothing but cruelty. Those who look on and enjoy the spectacle of one man's beating another into insensibility must be monsters. But such is by no means the whole situation. A crowd at a prizefight is among the most democratic of all crowds. Almost literally rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief meet on terms of good will. The beggar man and the thief aren't necessarily poorly arrayed. On the contrary, they may be dressed with quiet splendor. They may even have names of some distinction. They are out to see a thrilling contest of experts, and, as a rule, they look on with the judgment and the enjoyment of connoisseurs. Their comments during the prizefight showed that they weren't mere brutes. They felt and they regretted the inequality of the contestants. They admired and they applauded Carpentier, lightly and gracefully made, plainly the more delicate instrument, for his nerve in standing up against a battering ram. They noted and they enjoyed the French grace and ease and courtesy. At the same time they appreciated the businesslike way Dempsey went at his job and got it done without ill-feeling and without gloating.

I was very much interested in the article on the fight written by a New York clergyman. It was a superb piece of invective. But it saw only a part of the scene, the part that this militant representative of Christianity wanted to see. It called the women and men who were present by vile names, the vilest that could be applied to them, with concentrated emphasis on the qualities that were assumed to be anti-social. It seemed to think that those people had no right to meet and to enjoy themselves together in this conspicuous way. What the article pre-eminently lacked was not merely the Christian spirit, with its infusion of mercy, but the desire to see whatever good there might be lying behind the scene and affecting its character. Now there were probably many people seated around the ring that led bad lives. But not one of them was all bad. And most of them led lives that were good according to their lights. And some of them probably led lives that were just as good as the life of that clergyman, perhaps better. A great many probably had minds that were free from bitterness against their kind. They couldn't have entertained the feeling that the clergyman expressed so openly and with such self-righteousness. In its place they had the good will that did so much to make this occasion characteristic and did so much to make the sporting life attractive.

If some one had said to the world, "Which would you rather be, this furious censor or one of those happy-go-lucky sports that enjoyed the fight?" I wonder if the majority vote would have been in favor of the censor.

Some people were shocked by the money that went to the fighters. Perhaps they had reason. But they ought to go on and consider other injustices similar in kind and, in their effects, far more serious. Some time in the future, perhaps not far distant, the world will look back on such injustices with amazement and marvel that they should have been endured in a period where there was so much social enlightenment.

And as for the cruelty involved, how slight it appears in comparison with the physical and mental anguish caused by large groups of men with families suddenly losing their jobs and not knowing when they'll be able to get work again.

If we should think steadily of this situation for a few moments we'd find ourselves getting sick.

ALONE with the ass, on the open road,
Single, the jingle of pot and pan,
Must answer my voice, says the Tinker Man.
Alone in the night, and alone in the day,
Alone in the gold, and alone in the gray,
As Adam himself, when the world began,
So I'll wed me a wife, says the Tinker Man.
Tinker, Tailor, young girls say,
I must wed a thief one day,
Drover, and Draper, and Publican,
But the first in the line is the Tinker Man.

The Poacher has his traps and gins:
The Housewife rags and rusty tins:
The Cook has kettles, half a score,
That I must mold and mend once more.
The Dairymaid has pails and pans,
The Gardener with his watering cans,
They all must trade with the Tinker Man.
And so they did since the roads began.
So I'll get me a girl with moon-dyed hair
And a face as sweet as the morning air:
She shall not sew, she shall not spin,
She'll have no need to wash and wring:
She shall not churn, with arms that ache,
Nor sweep, nor scrub, nor brew, nor bake,
Nor feed the pigs, nor tend the fowls,
But call the larks, and bats, and owls.
The Woods for her bower, the moor for her hall,
And the edge of the world for her garden wall.
The road for her stair, and the wind for her fan,
She'll ride, as the bride of the Tinker Man.
An egg to her breakfast, a fowl to her tea,
So she shall fare, who goes with me.
The Bride of the decent Tinker Man:
Who'll mind her, and find her the best he can.

Tinker, Tailor, young girls say,
Wed a rogue and weep away.
Drover, and Draper, and Publican,
But the first in the line is the Tinker Man.

—E. C. Wickham, in the Westminster Gazette (London).

VENDETTA A LA MODE

THE continued violence, resulting in frequent murders, in the coal fields of West Virginia may partly, at least, be attributed to the feud tradition which still persists in that troubled region. This is the opinion of Winthrop D. Lane of the New York Evening Post staff, who spent some six weeks in the coal district for this paper. In his new pamphlet, "Civil War in West Virginia" (Huebsch), Mr. Lane says:

"Here is an important fact in the industrial conflict now going on in West Virginia. Many people living in these regions believe in settling disputes by personal warfare. They are used to the arbitrament of force. Human life is held more cheaply than in some more cultivated parts of civilization. There are miners working in the coal mines of West Virginia and Kentucky today who say their fathers and grandfathers take down guns off the wall and go a hundred yards or so from the house to lie in wait for some private enemy. . . . The fight over unionism has taken the place of private feuds. Some of the methods used in carrying on this fight are the methods that the tradition of the region helps to explain."

CONRAD'S GRIEVANCE

I have in my time told some stories which are (I hate false modesty) both true and lovely. Yet no little girl ever wrote to me in kindly terms. And why? Simply because I am not enough of a vagabond.

—Joseph Conrad, in "Notes on Life and Letters"

There is a thread in our thoughts as there is a pulse in our feelings; he who can hold the one knows how to think, and he who can move the other knows how to feel.

—Disraeli.

JOHN ROSES IN HIS TARIFF

By R. W. HARWOOD
his aspect of the sugar situation in the Pacific is the present movement of the 9 sacks of Central American wash and sugar that was rushed to this country on consignment before the new tariff went into effect. It was expected that the tariff alone would make a difference of 75 cents a sack in whatever was obtainable in this country, and there was no market for the product elsewhere.

The sugar market continued to drop, however, taking the tariff profit along with it, and the Central American sugar has been on the market at prices ranging between $4.75 and $5.10 wholesale at the low level of sugar on July 2. The whole lot of sugar is now $5.25. In quality the Central American sugar does not compare with the product of the local refineries, according to experts, having an off color. It is known as a cane washed sugar. While not fancy for table purposes it may be used for preserving. The retail price in many instances has been ranging around $5.50 a sack.

OLIVE MEN GET TARIFF
"We have made a hard fight and hoped, sometimes almost against hope, that we would win all that we asked for was not too much for adequate protection," says J. J. Hoy, secretary of the California Olive Association, in his report on the favorable action of the House and Senate committees of the House of Representatives for an increased schedule. He continues: "While the rates fixed are not as high as those asked by the olive industry, they provide real protection and may be considered a distinct victory for California, where practically all the olives in this country are grown."

PILUS GO TO
Virden Packing Company today announced a jump of more than 1 cent in the price of live hogs. The new schedule is: Hard grain-fed top pigs, 100 to 150 pounds weight, 13 cents; 150 to 225 pounds, 12 cents; 225 to 300 pounds, 11 cents; 300 to 400 pounds, 11 cents.

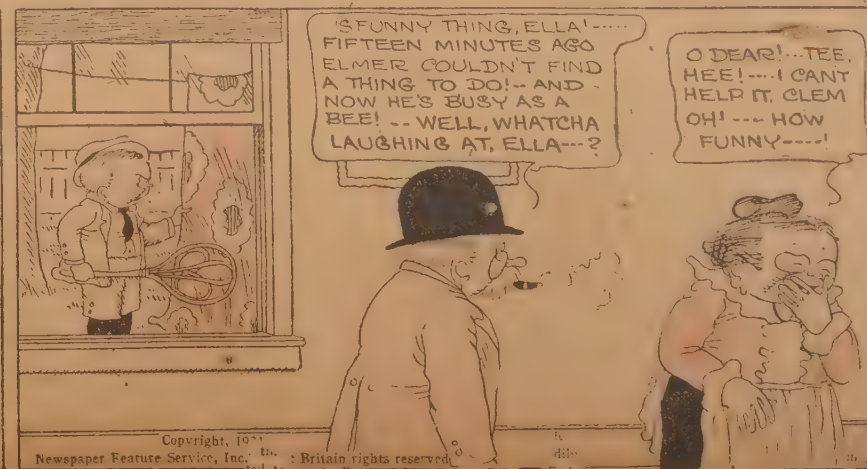

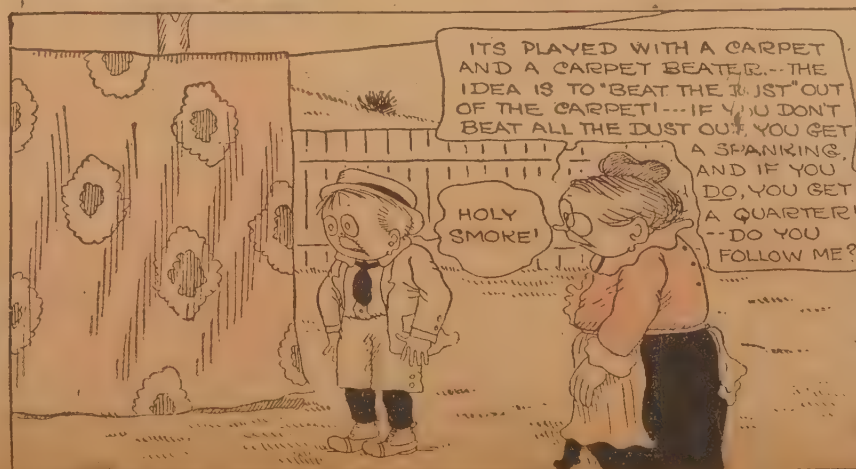

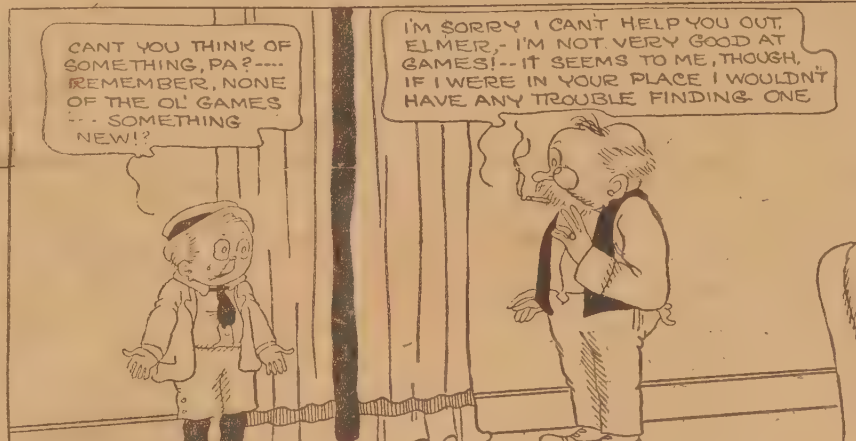

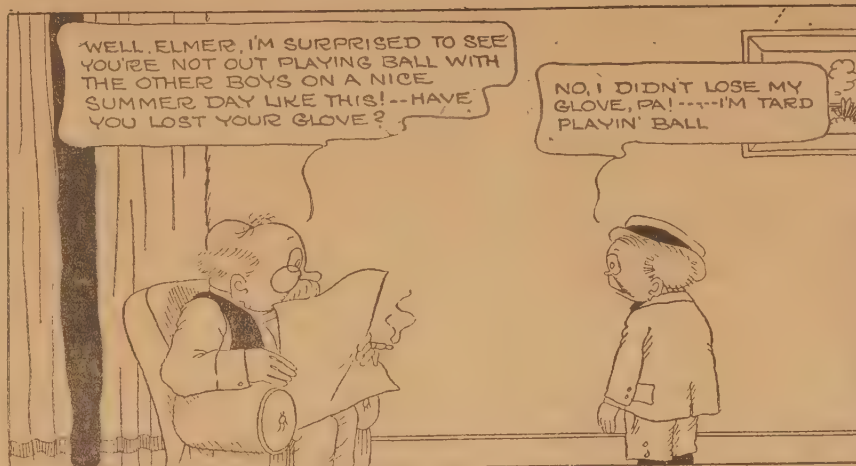

Butter, Cheese, Eggs

Following a week marked with gains particularly for eggs, the local dairy exchange is closed today. An announcement from the Dairy Producers of California, Inc., to the effect that the board of directors will take definite steps to open a market for California eggs in England. It now costs less to ship to London by water than by rail to New York. One of the purposes of a special meeting of stockholders of the association, called for July 14, is to provide funds for financing the European egg shipment.

COAST IN SUMMER IS ACTOR'S GOAL, SAYS MOORE

George Austin Moore, one of vaudeville's best known performers, who arrived here Wednesday preparatory for his Orpheum opening tomorrow afternoon, declares that while a few seasons ago the actor in New York strove to arrange his Western routes so he might be on the warm coast during the winter months, now it is the prevailing custom to attempt for summer routes which will land the thespian here during the time this city is comparatively cool.

In explanation of this reversal of practice, Moore says the New York has learned more to dread his native island's warmth of summer than its winter's rigidity.

The effect of this is to be decidedly beneficial for Pacific Coast Orpheum vaudeville, according to Moore, for while a few years ago it was next to impossible to bring celebrities here in summer when other Orpheum houses throughout the Middle West region were closed, now the summer Orpheum shows will be on a standard with those which arrive in winter months.

Moore's leap to the coast was almost a direct one, as he played but two Canadian cities on his way West. He will remain in California during the intolerably hot Eastern months, after concluding his San Francisco and Los Angeles engagements. After his vacation, the monologist will head back to his accustomed Broadway haunts, stopping en route for a week's engagement at the various Orpheum houses on the coast.

This route will land him in New York in the dead of winter, a period he describes as being pleasant in comparison with the heat the tight fans from San Francisco braved when they went to see the Dempsey-Carpenter encounter.

"The Jest" Tonight at Hearst Greek Theater

"The Jest," Bonelli's powerful drama of fifteenth century Florence, in the day of Lorenzo the Magnificent, will be staged again at the Greek Theater this evening. This will mark the second performance on the Pacific coast, the first time having been in May, when inclement weather deterred many who were anxious to see the play from risking the menace of rain to sit in the Greek Theater on the evening of the performance.

Samuel J. Hume and Irving Pichel, in the parts played by Lionel and John Barrymore, respectively, together with Miss Olga Gray, are ably supported by a cast in most parts the same as that of the first production.

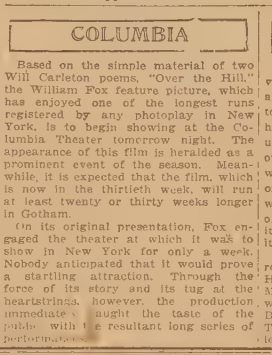

Tarkington's 'Penrod' Coming to Alcazar

The Alcazar Theater announces the production beginning Sunday afternoon, July 11, "Penrod," a charming four act comedy, based upon Booth Tarkington's clever stories. The play has never been presented in San Francisco and grown-ups and children alike will revel in the adventures of four small boys who do all of the stunts and perform all of the pranks expected from the youngster of today. Belasco & Mayer will introduce a clever youngster in the title role and Gladys George and Dudley Ayres will have important parts.

CASINO

Closing a three years' engagement in San Francisco, Will King and his company of fifty will say goodbye tonight. King calls his current show the "Farwell Revue." The production boasts no comedy and music. Lew Dumber, Reese Gardner, Clair Starr, Will Hayes, Honora Hamilton, Bessie Hill and the other principals are seen to advantage. Following tonight's performance, the Casino is to be dark for a short summer period, the opening date and the new policy to be announced later by Manager Lew Newcomb.

"FIGARO" STARS DRILLING FOR PRODUCTION

With rehearsals being speeded up and new stars added to the already strong cast, the production of Mozart's comic opera, "The Marriage of Figaro," is rapidly nearing readiness for presentation at the Greek Theater, Berkeley, on the nights of Thursday, July 21, and Saturday, July 23.

Paul Steindorff, choragus of the University of California, under whose personal supervision and direction this immense production will be given, yesterday announced the names of several prominent singers to take the roles previously unfilled. These include Emilie Lancel, Alice McComb, Jack Hillman, Joe Corral, W. Molitor and George W. Piner.

Mabel Riegelman, an Oakland girl, who became nationally celebrated as prima donna for the Metropolitan Opera Company and the Chicago Opera Company, is cast in the part of Cherubino, a role in which she created a sensation at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. The New York critics were enthusiastic in their praise of her performance. Miss Riegelman is eager to present to her California admirers the part that won her fame in the East.

Madame Johanna Kristoffy, with Miss Riegelman, heads the cast. Few sopranos are better fitted for the role of the Countess in "The Marriage of Figaro" than is Madame Kristoffy. Another brilliant singer to be heard in this production is Madame J. Haagen Talbot.

John Cowper Powys Returns to S. F. for New Lecture Series

Owing to the contagious interest in the lectures of the distinguished Englishman, John Cowper Powys, during last April, this unique lecturer and author has returned to San Francisco to give a series of engagements under the direction of Jessica Colbert through July and August. The lectures will be given in the red room of the Hotel Bellevue every Monday and Friday at 11 o'clock and 8:15 o'clock, beginning July 11.

Under the subject, "Great Personalities," there will be included lectures on Saint Paul, Dante, Abraham Lincoln, D'Annunzio, Joan of Arc and Queen Victoria, and the subject, "Influences That Have Made for Civilization."

FARRAR RECALLS SPELL CAST BY CARUSO

One of Geraldine Farrar's most amusing experiences was the first time she ever sang with Caruso—and it is most characteristic of her, too. As she tells the story:

"It was one night at Monte Carlo, in the spring a half dozen years ago. We were both making our debut on the Riviera that season and were to sing together. I came from Berlin and Caruso from Milan, and neither of us had heard the other. We were to sing 'La Boheme.' I was eager and confident, for there were many reasons why I wanted to sing my best. The house was filled from pit to gallery, the orchestra and chorus were perfect and everything looked like a triumph for us all. The first act went splendidly until we reached Rudolfo's romance, 'Che gelida manina,' one of the most exquisite in all opera.

"At the point of the action I, as Mimì, am sitting entranced on the floor in the middle of the stage while Rudolfo sings to me rather than to the audience. Well, to make a long story short, I played the part too well. My emotions got all tangled up in the golden tones of Caruso's voice. I forgot all about everything, the theater, the action—everything, and sat there sobbing like a child. When my cue came, I didn't hear it. The orchestra hesitated. My mother in the wings waved frantically at me. I did not see her. I was having a most beautiful old-fashioned cry. Then the conductor rose from his seat and in large tones demanded: 'Well, Miss Farrar, are you going to sing or not?'

"Thank goodness, the audience was sympathetic and understood just what had happened, and the performance was a greater success for the incident."

San Franciscans soon will have the pleasure of listening to Farrar, the mature artist, at the height of her vocal gifts when she appears as the leading soprano of the Scott Grand Opera Company, whose San Francisco season opens at the Exposition Auditorium September 19 under the local management of Frank W. Heav.

'MAMMA'S AFFAIR,' PRIZE COMEDY, AT ALCAZAR

The famous Harvard prize play, "Mamma's Affair," an original comedy brimful of amusing situations, will be the attraction at the Alcazar for the week beginning with tomorrow's matinee. It will mark the second week of the special engagement of Gladys George, who is proving exceedingly popular with patrons of the O'Farrell street playhouse. The plot is distinctly unique, and the fun is kept at the boiling point throughout. A young girl whose mother is distressed by imaginary ills finds herself forced into a betrothal with a man she does not love. Before the ceremony, she collapses from the strain of caring for her parent and a physician is called. His endeavors to straighten out the tangle and ends by falling in love with his youthful patient.

Dudley Ayres is just suited to the part of the medico. Thomas Chatterton returns to the cast in the role of the disappointed suitor, and Leslie Virden will have the exceedingly difficult characterization of the mother. In the cast also will be found Bert Chapman, Anna MacNaughton and Blanche Douglas.

WIGWAM

The feature film for the Wigwam screen tomorrow and Monday is William Russell in "Bare Knuckles," a tale of an unafraid man who, when needs be, battles against the greatest of odds. As "Brute" McGuire, William Russell shows that "bare knuckles" are weapons to reckon with, even against the "two gun man." The feature films for the five days commencing with Tuesday are George Beban in "One Man in a Million" and the super-production, "Unseen Forces," with Sylvia Beamer, Rosemary Theby, Conrad Nagel and Robert Cain in the cast.

The vaudeville features include the vaudeville oddity, "The Broken Mirror," with Fred Schwarz and a capable company; the popular musical comedy star, Marie Kell, and the Brower Brothers.

'FOUR HORSEMEN' STILL MAGNET AT CURRAN

Sunday's presentations of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" will signalize the beginning of the fourth week of the engagement at the Curran. The big Rex Ingram-Metro picture continues to be the outstanding film attraction of the season, and the crowds that throng the theater are not chary in expressing their admiration for this remarkable visualization of the Ithaca book. The public has come to realize that this is not merely an "entertaining picture," but a picture with a purpose, in which all the resources of the stage, the film studio and the screen have been combined to produce what has been well described as "the most magnificent picture of the screen."

Those who have seen the "Four Horsemen" agree that the months of work and care in production were justified for the picture is one that can be seen over and over again with renewed appreciation. The daily matinees continue in popularity.

Rudolph Valentino is soon to be seen in another role said to equal in color and romantic values his now famous characterization in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." This was made certain when Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, announced that the player had been secured to interpret the title role of "The Sheik," the next George Medford production for Paramount.

SAVOY

Bessie Barriscale, with her forty cowboys and the big company that surrounds her in "The Skirt" at the Savoy Theater, is to continue for another week in Howard Hickman's play. Bessie Barriscale has been welcomed by thousands who were her idolaters in other days. Those who have seen "The Skirt" understand why Richard Healdon grabbed the play quickly for a New York season.

Maude Fulton and George Eby selected the cast and arranged for the production of "The Skirt." The cast includes Marie Walcamp, Paul Harvey, Harlan Tucker, Frank Darien, George Taylor, Rupert Drum, Marie Stanton, Minnie Sisson, John Ivan, Lee Willard, Al Watson, Albert Van Antwerp and others. The management announces that at the coming Wednesday matinee souvenir photographs of Miss Barriscale will be given to the ladies in attendance in memory of her delightful engagement in "The Skirt."

Thomas Chatterton, who will be found missing these days from the Alcazar cast, is not far away, but is enjoying a deserved vacation. The popular young actor is spending his holiday motoring over the northern California boulevards. He will return to the cast Sunday, July 10.

PANTAGES

Eva Tanguay, eccentric comedienne, will be presented as the headliner attraction at the Pantages for the week beginning tomorrow. Miss Tanguay is the biggest sensation ever offered on the Pantages circuit and, on her trip westward, has been welcomed by record breaking houses. Her repertoire includes "Hello, Eva," "I'll Get Famous Yet," "Samba," "She Gets Away With Murder" and her most famous song, "I Don't Care." Her gowns are more dazzling than ever. Supporting Miss Tanguay will be a remarkable program of vaudeville. The photoplay will show Mary Miles Minter in "Sweet Laverder."

The Alcazar is planning to give San Francisco a number of new plays which have been great successes throughout the East, but have never before been presented in San Francisco. Included in the number are "The Talker" and "The Silent Witness."

NEW FILLMORE

Norman Kerry and Zena Keefe head the list of players in "Proxies," the special feature production that tops tomorrow's program at the New Fillmore Theater. Fillmore street, between Eddy and Ellis. "Proxies" is an adventure story that boasts of more thrills than does the average good picture of this type. There is a mystery angle well developed, bringing audiences to a surprising climax.

Romance has not been neglected, and has the humor element.

There's a good comedy on the bill, too. This is "The Circus Hero," featuring the further haps and mishaps of the Hall-room Boys. A color review is included on the program, with a news weekly. Strachan's orchestra will be heard in afternoon and evening concerts.

Jack Holt in "The Mask" and the Senett comedians in "Home Talent" will be the New Fillmore attractions Monday.

MR. AND MRS. PUBLIC:
"Hardboiled" — that's what they say of New York audiences.
But "The Woman God Changed" has broken through the superficial veneer and gripped their hearts, despite themselves.
The big new theme of this remarkable picture is holding New York audiences spellbound. Three big Broadway theaters—Rivoli, Rialto, Broadway—within a few blocks of one another are playing "The Woman God Changed" to unprecedented crowds. This is a situation distinctly new in the annals of big pictures.
The New York World says: "We peer into the future of motion picture production when we chance to behold so gripping and so fascinating a drama as 'The Woman God Changed.'"
And the scenic thriller, "The Runaway Train," is also a new idea — nothing like it has ever been attempted.
Severi and his orchestra will play "Samson and Delilah" and "That Hunting Waltz."

TIVOLI FEATURE STIRRING FILM OF NORTH

James Oliver Curwood's newest screen story, "God's Country and the Law," will be the feature attraction at the Tivoli next week.

"God's Country and the Law" is said to be a typical Curwood story, stirring in its action and dynamic in its characterizations, with wild animals playing their usual important parts. Thematically, it deals in dramatic fashion with a man driven to his destruction by a guilty conscience.

Clayton Kopp plays the principal part. He is supported by William H. Tiller, George Garvina, Fred S. Jones and Hope Sullivan.

Marcelli and the Tivoli orchestra will be heard in their usual splendid concert. A two-reel comedy and a scenic will also be screened.

STRAND

Thomas H. Ince's panorama of humanity, "Mother o' Mine," an Associated Producers' production, is the screen attraction opening at the Strand tomorrow afternoon. "Mother o' Mine" was founded upon "The Octopus," a story by Charles Belmont Davis, adapted to the screen by C. Gardner Sullivan. A remarkable cast of favorites, headed by Lloyd Hughes, Betty Blythe, Joseph Kilgour, Betty Ross, Claire McDowell, Andrew Ross and Andrew Arbuckle, are the featured players.

A number of supplementary subjects include a special comedy, Mutt and Jeff in an animated cartoon, and the latest news pictures. Eddie Horton offers an original prologue suggested by "Mother o' Mine," a song selection featured with the organ.

IMPERIAL

"The Woman God Changed," a powerful love drama produced by the Cosmopolitan studios, will open its widely heralded engagement at the Imperial tomorrow. Seena Owen and E. K. Lincoln head the strong cast of characters. Miss Owen plays the part of a dancing girl who escapes to the South Sea Islands, after doing away with her faithless lover. Her pursuit by a detective, their shipwreck on a lonely island, and finally their return home to face the bar of justice forms an absorbing tale. It is a Paramount picture, and will be introduced by an atmospheric prologue. The Imperial will also present on the same bill a scenic thriller, "A Runaway Train," declared to be the most unusual picture ever taken. Several will play "Samson and Delilah" and "Dancing Waltz." "The Ten Dollar Raise" leaves tonight.

RIALTO

A snow picture, with its setting in the frozen North, offers cooling prospects for patrons of the silent drama at the Rialto Theater, commencing today, "The Golden Trail," a story of the Klondike, starring Jane Novak and Jack Livingston is the attraction.

The bill is further distinguished by four dancers from the Imperial Russian Ballet, under the direction of Boris Petroff and Anton Yarovitzky. Solo dances by Anna Karenina and Marjorie Linken, as well as ensemble numbers, are included.

The opening scenes of "The Golden Trail" reveal its three chief players in the formative stage of a college career. These three are later seen enacting a triangular drama in the lawless Klondike.

"Bliss," a comedy, featuring both Harold Lloyd and Bebe Daniels; "The Gumps" in cartoon, and the Rialto orchestra, Frank Siegrist directing, are other attractions.

COLISEUM

HAIGHT

Katherine MacDonald brings beauty of feature and raiment as dual attractions to the screen at the Haight Theater for tomorrow only in "My Latch Key," from a story by C. N. and A. M. Williamson. Lots of excitement is offered in the plot. Edmund Lowe is seen as the husband. Claire du Brey, a victim of unrequited love, is the villainess. A Sunshine comedy is also offered on the Sunday program with the usual concert selections by the Haight orchestra, J. Quincy Barbour directing.

For its attraction Monday and Tuesday the Haight will offer Vera Gordon, the "mother" of "Humoresque," in her own starring production, "The Greatest Love."

ROYAL

Justine Johnstone, one of the most beautiful American girls to win fame on stage or screen, will be seen at the Royal Theater tomorrow in "The Plaything of Broadway," a film drama of city life. The play is described as containing more than the ordinary appeal in human interest, and the action rises to grippingly dramatic situations. "The Plaything of Broadway" will be the feature attraction at the Royal for tomorrow only. The remainder of the program will include the latest news weekly, a comedy, "His Wild Oats," and an appropriate musical program by the Royal orchestra. Today will see the final showings of "Straight is the Way," the screen adaptation of the great stage success, "Turn to the Right."

PORTOLA

The Portola, beginning tomorrow, will present Alice Lake in "The Greater Claim." The story takes an unusual angle of the familiar "chorus girl-rich man's son" angle. Miss Lake plays the part of a Follies beauty who marries a wealthy youth, only to lose him when he is kidnapped by his late father and shipped to sea. The girl returns to Broadway cabaret life. Then her child, through strange circumstances, becomes adopted into the grandfather's home, where it proves the means of reconciliation after the intrigue of two adventurers is foiled. Other units of the Portola bill include Prior's orchestra, "Scrappily Married," a Christie comedy, and Helene Hughes, offering "Nobody's Baby."

"Sham," with its all-star cast, closes tonight.

NEW MISSION

"Proxies," one of the year's big mystery dramas, will head the big program of attractions to be screened tomorrow at the New Mission Theater, Mission street near Twenty-second. "Proxies" is of the thriller type. It has enough exciting adventure in it to satisfy the demands of even the most insatiable clamor after exciting motion picture entertainment. Zena Keefe and Norman Kerry head the big cast.

The comedy attraction introduces the Hallroom Boys in their latest bundle of mishaps, "The Circus Hero." In addition, a news weekly and a color review feature will be heard in new numbers. "The Mask," starring Jack Holt, and Mack Bennett's comedians in "Home Talent" will be at the New Mission next Monday.

FROLIC

Heading the program that comes to the Frolic tomorrow is "The Beautiful Gambler," an adaptation of Peter B. Kyne's sensational story, "Renunciation." The picture is a Universal special attraction, presented by a special cast, with Grace Darmond at the head.

The story concerns a girl who marries the owner of a gambling hall to save her father from disgrace through his gambling losses. The action takes an amazingly dramatic turn and leads to a thrilling climax. Prominent in Miss Darmond's support are Harry Van Meter, Charles Brinley, Herahell Mayall and Willis Marks. Other numbers on the new Frolic program are "Wood Sings," a Century comedy; Hoot Gibson in "The Marvin Trail" and the latest issue of the International News.

CALIFORNIA

Pauline Frederick is given a great role in "Salvage," in which she will star next week at the California. Mother love is the principal element of the story, but within its seven reels "Salvage" runs the gamut of human emotions. Miss Frederick is supported by a distinguished cast of players, including Milton Sills as leading man, Ralph Lewis and little Helen Stone, a clever child actress, who contributes much to this picture. The California will present the Apollo Quartet, a group of male singers, and the California Theater orchestra, Herman Heller conducting, in concert.

Nasimova will be seen for the last time tonight in her brilliant photoplay, "Billions."

Alice LAKE in "The Greater Claim"

Alice Lake brings all of her vivacity, beauty and buoyancy into play in this fascinating picture story.

It combines a mother love appeal with the adventures of a wealthy youth, who, after marrying a Follies beauty, is kidnapped by ruffians in the employ of his father, and shipped to sea.

"The Greater Claim" affords Miss Lake the best role she has played to date, and the plot is one that compels the closest attention.

"Scrappily Married," a Christie Comedy, is as its name implies, a humorous satire on married life.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS TO SAN FRANCISCO

1921

Loyal San Franciscans join today in celebrating the diamond jubilee of their city.

On July 9, 1846, the westward course of empire set a new outpost, which has become the metropolis of the Pacific. On that day Commander John B. Montgomery of the United States sloop of war Portsmouth sent a detachment ashore, and at 8 a. m. the American colors were raised in sign of possession, in what is now Portsmouth Square.

San Francisco has behind it 75 years of such progress as any race in history might look back upon with pride. It has drawn prosperity from its immeasurably rich surroundings. It has built up a citizenry worthy of its setting. It has paved the way to a still more glorious future.

We of San Francisco unite today in doffing hats to the mother city on so significant an occasion.
